Student suspension, temporal removal from a school or class, is an action towards disobeying this school's code of conduct. In Los Angeles County school district, the school board policy protects students from unfair suspension by identifying specific due process. The County Board aims to ensure that students receive a wide range of educational opportunities in the school environment that promotes overall well-being and safety (Mowen & Brent, 2016). This paper focuses on examining the requirements for short- and long-term suspension of students in Los Angeles County.

The Los Angeles County Office of Education (LACOE) sets the standards of behavior and clarifies the disciplinary process for their violation. The foundations for both short-term and long-term suspension can only include consideration, recommendation, and implementation that are mentioned by the office ("Suspension and expulsion/due process," 2017). The appropriate use of suspension authority implies that suspension can be applied when other means of correction did not work. A student's family should be notified when a teacher observes the escalating misbehavior. It is important to note that students cannot be suspended for absenteeism, truancy, or lateness. These procedures are common for suspension in both long- and short-term periods (Camacho & Krezmien, 2020). With the aim of ensuring proper supervision, specific reasons for suspension are listed by Los Angeles County school district. The key grounds for suspension are hate violence, physical injury, firearm, and other dangerous item use, robbery, damage to property, and so on.

The short-term suspension can be set on the period up to 10 days based on the investigation by a principal, designee, or the County Superintendent. In case parents want to appeal the suspension, it should begin with the suspending administrator. The written request for appeal is to be completed within three school days, and the principal's decision is to be sent to parents. To appeal this decision, parents can refer to the LACOE that will review the actions of the principal and behavioral records of the student.

The long-term suspension, also known as expulsion, is enacted for more than 11 days yet less than 365 days. The County Board can be connected to file an appeal within 30 days from the decision of the administrative panel. During the hearing, the
