Blue by Fire: A Marker of the Technical History of Glass and Ceramics Howell G. M. Edwards, Philippe Colomban, 2025-01-27 The use of natural mineral and synthetic blue pigments in antiquity for wall paintings and illuminated manuscript historiography evolved into the most suitable blue pigments for the decoration of glazed and enamelled wares ceramics glass and metal which required a stability at the high temperatures of the kilns used for glazing and firing Historic literature is often vague regarding the blue pigments used for this purpose The generic term cobalt blue covers a wide range of pigments that were actually used for the decoration of faience majolica stonewares earthenwares and porcelains This book addresses the application of elemental and molecular spectroscopic analytical techniques to a range of diverse problems which arise for decorated ceramics glass and enamels and related artefacts a history of techniques provenance and authentication The text contains an introduction to the important analytical techniques that are used in destructive and nondestructive analytical measurements and highlights potential future applications based upon novel miniaturised instrumentation for in situ studies The book is co authored by two international experts with many years experience in the application of analysis to artworks and archaeological artefacts and in the investigation of materials and sites for cultural heritage preservation Among 19 chapters one is devoted to an evaluation of the analytical techniques that are used and the pitfalls which can arise in the interpretation of the data The approach conveys the detailed information which has become available from the adoption of analytical techniques to diverse problems through the scientific interrogation of ceramic and related artefacts Examples are given of how the pigment analysis and sourcing can provide unique information about ancient trade routes and pigment sourcing historically A classic instance is provided by the transfer of European enamelling technologies carried out at the beginning of the 17th century in Japan Arita and at the turn of the 17th 18th centuries in China by the Jesuits established at the Court of respectively the Kyushu island of Daymios and the Chinese Qing Empero Kangxi It has hence been demonstrated that some of the most beautiful porcelains emanating from Japan and China in this period incorporate blue decoration with pigments supplied from Europe The interpretation of the analytical data can assist museum curators archaeologists art dealers experts and cultural heritage historians in the preservation and conservation of ancient materials which have applied blue pigment decoration

Trading Spaces Emma Hart, 2024-07-06 Looks at the shift from the marketplace as an actual place to a theoretical idea and how this shaped the early American economy When we talk about the economy the market is often just an abstraction While the exchange of goods was historically tied to a particular place capitalism has gradually eroded this connection to create our current global trading systems In Trading Spaces Emma Hart argues that Britain's colonization of North America was a key moment in the market's shift from place to idea with major consequences for the character of the American economy Hart's book takes in the shops auction sites wharves taverns fairs and homes of seventeenth and eighteenth century America places where new mechanisms and conventions of trade arose as Europeans re-created or adapted continental methods to new surroundings Since those earlier conventions tended to rely on regulation more than their colonial offspring did what emerged in early America was a less fettered brand of capitalism By the nineteenth century this had evolved into a market economy that would not look too foreign to contemporary Americans To tell this complex transnational story of how our markets came to be Hart looks back farther than most historians of US capitalism rooting these markets in the norms of seventeenth and eighteenth century Britain Perhaps most important this is not a story of specific commodity markets over time but rather is a history of the trading spaces themselves the physical sites in which the grubby work of commerce occurred and where the market itself was born
