The Byzantium Chronicles: the Fire Tower P. Cono, 2014-12-15 Commander Bezakis and his gay slave Markos are sent to ancient Alexandria to help stop the Caliph of Egypt from developing a secret weapon and firing it from the Pharos lighthouse

The History of al-Ṭabarī Vol. 33, 2015-07-01 This section of al-Tabarī's History covers the eight year reign of al-Mu'ta'im 833-42 immediately following the reign of his elder brother al-Ma'mun when the Islamic caliphate was once more united after the civil strife and violence of the second decade of the ninth century A.D. Al-Mu'tasim's reign is notable for the transfer of the administrative capital of the caliphate from Baghdad north to the military settlement of Samarra on the Tigris where it was to remain for some 60 years. This move meant a significant increase in the caliph's dependence on their Turkish slave guards. Al-Mu'ta'im's reign was also marked by periods of intense military activity along the northern fringes of the Islamic lands against the Byzantines in Anatolia against the sectarian Babak and his followers the wearers of red the Khurramiyyah in northwestern Persia and against the politically ambitious local prince Mazyar in the Caspian provinces of Persia. These episodes take up the greater part of al-Tabarī's account of al-Mu'ta'im's reign and he has provided graphic and detailed narratives of the respective campaigns including valuable details on military organization and tactics during this period.

Athenaeum and Literary Chronicle, 1854 The Byzantine Court Ayla Ödekan, Nevra Necipoğlu, Engin Akyürek, 2013 The designation of Istanbul by the European Union's Council of Ministers as the European Capital of Culture for 2010 was instrumental in the decision to focus on Constantinople in the Second International Sevgi Gönül Byzantine Studies Symposium which was held on 21-23 June 2010 at the Istanbul Archaeological Museum. The particular theme of the symposium, 'The Byzantine Court: Source of Power and Culture', was selected on the other hand in view of Constantinople's essential role as Byzantine imperial capital soon after its foundation by the Roman Emperor Constantine the Great on 11 May 330. The aim of the symposium was to evaluate from administrative, political, social, economic and religious perspectives the impact of the political power that spread out from the Great Palace and as of the twelfth century from the Blachernai Palace to the rest of the empire and to investigate the reflections of this power in the cultural sphere. Presented in this volume are thirty out of the forty papers delivered at the Second International Sevgi Gönül Byzantine Studies Symposium. The papers have been grouped under the following four section headings: Byzantine Palace Architecture; The Byzantine Court as the Center of Imperial Power; Ceremonies at the Court and in the City; and Court Culture and Visual Arts. The Gentleman's Magazine, and Historical Chronicle, for the Year ..., 1857 Warfare, State And Society In The Byzantine World 565-1204 John Haldon, 2020-07-24 Warfare, State and Society in the Byzantine World is the first comprehensive study of warfare and the Byzantine world from the sixth to the twelfth century. The book examines Byzantine attitudes to warfare, the effects of war on society and culture, and the relations between the soldiers, their leaders and society. The communications, logistics, resources and manpower capabilities of the Byzantine Empire are explored to set warfare in its geographical as well as historical context In addition to the strategic and tactical evolution of the army this book analyses the army in campaign and in battle and its attitudes to violence in the context of the Byzantine Orthodox Church The Byzantine Empire has an enduring fascination for all those who study it and Warfare State and Society is a colourful study of the central importance of warfare within it The Freemason's Chronicle ,1892 Illustrated Catalogue of Books, Standard and Holiday McClurg,
