The British Navy In The Baltic:

The British Navy in the Baltic John D. Grainger, 2014 A comprehensive overview of the activities of the British navy in the Baltic Sea from the earliest times until the twentieth century The British Navy in the Baltic Olavi Vitikka, 1999

Freeing the Baltic, 1918-1920 Geoffrey Bennett, 2017-05-31 In 1919 the new governments of the besieged Baltic states appealed desperately to the Allies for assistance A small British flotilla of light cruisers and destroyers were sent to help under the command of Rear Admiral Sir Walter Cowan They were given no clear instructions as to what their objective was to be and so Cowan decided that he had to make his own policy Despite facing a much greater force Cowan improvised one of the most daring raids ever staged by the British Navy He succeeded with devastating effect outmaneuvering his enemies sinking two Russian Battleships and eventually freeing the Baltic states of Estonia Latvia and Lithuania Battle in the Baltic Steve R Dunn, Al Ross, 2020-01-31 The little known campaign to save Latvian and Estonian independence Anyone interested in naval operations is likely to find some useful food for thought StrategyPage For most participants the First World War ended on November 11 1918 But Britain's Royal Navy found itself after four years of slaughter and war weariness fighting a fierce and brutal battle in the Baltic Sea against Bolshevik Russia in an attempt to protect the fragile independence of the newly liberated states of Estonia and Latvia This book describes the events of those two years when Royal Navy ships and men under the command of Rear Admiral Walter Cowan found themselves in a maelstrom of chaos and conflicting loyalties and facing multiple opponents the communist forces of the Red Army and Navy led by Leon Trotsky the gangs of freebooting German soldiers the Freikorps intent on keeping the Baltic states under German domination and the White Russian forces bent on retaking Petrograd and rebuilding the Russian Empire During this hard fought campaign there were successes on both sides For example the Royal Navy captured two destroyers that were given to the Estonians but the submarine L 55 was sunk by Russian warships lost with all hands Seeking revenge in a daring sequence of attacks and using small coastal motor boats the RN sank the cruiser Oleg and badly damaged two Russian battleships Today few people are aware of this exhausting campaign and the sacrifices made by Royal Navy sailors but this book retells their exciting but forgotten stories and using much firsthand testimony bring back to life the critical naval operations that prevented the retaking of the new Baltic countries that Churchill saw as an essential shield against the encroachment of the Bolsheviks into Europe and resulted in an uneasy peace that would prevail until 1939 Warships in the Baltic Campaign 1918-20 Angus Konstam, 2022-04-26 A fascinating look at the British naval intervention in the Baltic in 1918 20 and at the British Soviet and Baltic nationalist fleets that fought Following the Russian Revolution of October 1917 the Baltic states became a battleground between Russian Reds and Whites German troops and emerging Baltic independence forces In November 1918 the British government decided to intervene to protect British interests and to support the emerging Baltic states This initial small force of cruisers and destroyers was eventually augmented by other British warships including aircraft carriers a monitor as well as a handful of submarines and torpedo boats Opposing them was the far more powerful Russian Baltic Fleet now controlled by the Bolsheviks The campaign that followed involved naval clashes between the two sides the most spectacular of which was an attack on the Soviet naval base of Kronstadt in June 1919 by a force of small British torpedo boats They torpedoed and sunk the Russian cruiser Oleg an action which effectively bottled the Baltic fleet up in port for the remainder of the campaign Finally in early 1920 the British squadron was withdrawn following Soviet recognition of Estonia Latvia and Lithuania This New Vanguard title explores the naval side of this little known but strategically crucial campaign fought by the war weary navies of Britain and Russia and by warships of the emerging Baltic states Describing the political background to the conflict and the key points of the naval campaign as well as the warships involved this is a concise and fascinating account of an overlooked naval campaign that helped reshape the map of Europe

Strategy and War Planning in the British Navy, 1887-1918 Shawn T. Grimes, 2012 Overturns existing thinking to show that the Royal Navy engaged professionally in war planning in the years before the First World War It has been widely accepted that British naval war planning from the late nineteenth century to the First World War was amateur and driven by personal political agenda But Shawn T Grimes argues that this was far from the case His extensive original research shows that in fact the Royal Navy had a definitive war strategy which was well thought through and formulated in a professional manner Faced by a perceived Franco Russian naval threat the Admiralty adopted an offensive strategy from 1888 to 1905 based on observational blockade and combined operations This strategy was modified after 1905 for war with Wilhelmine Germany The book shows how specific war plans aimed at Germany's naval and economic assets in the Baltic were drawn up between 1906 and 1908 and that the strategy of primary distant blockade formulated between 1897 and 1907 became a reality in late 1912 and not July 1914 as previously thought The book argues that the Naval Intelligence Department which took a lead in devising these plans was the Navy's de facto staff Overall it is clear that there was a continuity underpinning British thinking about how to wage a naval war SHAWN GRIMES received his PhD in history from the University of London and has been a Lecturer in European History at the University of Saskatchewan

The Forgotten War of the Royal Navy Michał Glock, 2018-02 This book covers a little known period of fighting in the Gulf of Finland Its first chord was the German intervention in Finland and Estonia in early 1918 and evacuation of the Baltic Fleet through ice to Kronstadt Through the entire year 1918 the Soviet forces were preparing their bases in Kronstadt and Petrograd The attack of the German fleet was expected but it was too busy in operations in the west and the forces assigned to attack on Kronstadt proved to be too weak When the German Empire was defeated on the Western Front and the country was engulfed in revolutionary flame English forces and sporadically American and French ships appeared in the Baltic Sea By the end of the year the Soviet fleet tried to attack Tallinn which ended in capture of Soviet destroyers which were then handed over by the British to Estonia In 1919 the operations consisted in active blocking of the Soviet fleet by the Royal Navy and supporting land fighting The peace treaty signed in 1920 in Tartu effectively ended hostilities in this area This document sanctioned and confirmed the independence of Finland and Estonia for the next 19 years All the ships involved are described and illustrated with full technical specifications Profusely illustrated with scale drawings side views and illustrations The Royal Navy in the Baltic from 1807-1812 David John Raymond,2010

ABSTRACT This dissertation presents and analyzes British Naval Operations in the Baltic during the Napoleonic War In addition Political and Economic Relations between Britain and the nations bordering the Baltic will be addressed in particular Denmark Sweden and Russia The intent is to present a comprehensive portrayal of a largely overlooked period of Naval and Napoleonic History The Royal Navy List ,1878 The Royal Navy William Laird Clowes,1897 Medals of the British Navy and how They Were Won William H. Long,1895 The British Navy Earl Thomas Brassey Brassey,1883

The British Navy Thomas BRASSEY (Earl Brassey.),1883 Battle in the Baltic Dunn Steve,2021-11-30 For most participants the First World War ended on 11 November 1918 but the Royal Navy found itself despite four years of slaughter and war weariness were fighting a fierce and brutal battle in the Baltic Sea against Bolshevik Russia in an attempt to protect the fragile independence of the newly liberated states of Estonia and Latvia This new book by Steve R Dunn describes the events of those two years when RN ships and men under the command of Rear Admiral Walter Cowan found themselves in a maelstrom of chaos and conflicting loyalties and facing multiple opponents the communist forces of the Red Army and Navy led by Leon Trotsky the gangs of freebooting German soldiers the Freikorps intent on keeping the Baltic states under German domination and the White Russian forces bent on retaking Petrograd and rebuilding the Russian Empire During this hard fought campaign there were successes on both sides For example the Royal Navy captured two destroyers that were given to the Estonians but the submarine L 55 was sunk by Russian warships lost with all hands Seeking revenge in a daring sequence of attacks and using small coastal motor boats the RN sank the cruiser Oleg and badly damaged two Russian battleships Today few people are aware of this exhausting campaign and the sacrifices made by Royal Navy sailors three VCs were won but the pages of this book retell their exciting but forgotten stories and using much first hand testimony bring back to life the critical naval operations that prevented the retaking of the new Baltic countries that Churchill saw as an essential shield against the encroachment of the Bolsheviks into Europe An uneasy peace prevailed until 1939 This is a well written and very readable account of an important but little known campaign that still has relevance today I recommend it highly

Australian Naval Review Britain, France, and the Naval Arms Trade in the Baltic, 1919-1939 Donald J. Stoker,2003

Donald Stoker s book examines British and French involvement from 1919 to 1939 in the creation and development of the naval forces of Poland Finland and the three Baltic states of Estonia Latvia and Lithuania The Royal Navy, a History from the Earliest Times to Present Sir William Laird Clowes,Sir Clements Robert Markham,Alfred Thayer Mahan,Herbert Wrigley Wilson,Theodore Roosevelt,1897 Cockburn and the British Navy in Transition Roger Morriss,1997 Sir George Cockburn was the most influential serving officer in the politics of the British navy in the nineteenth century He came to public notice as the man who burned the White House following his part in the British attack on Washington in 1814 He also escorted Napoleon to St Helena after Waterloo But his greatest impact was as the Admiralty Commissioner who presided over much of the transition of the British navy from sail to steam between 1818 and 1846 This book examines the career of a formidable personality who maintained the interests and professionalism of the British navy through one of the most difficult periods of political and technological evolution it has yet faced It provides a unique insight into the conduct of the British Admiralty and will appeal to both the specialist and general reader
