Writing the Holocaust Zoë Vania Waxman, 2008-06-26

Arguing against the prevailing view that Holocaust survivors encouraged by a new and flourishing culture of witnessing have come forward only recently to tell their stories Writing the Holocaust examines the full history of Holocaust testimony from the first chroniclers confined to Nazi enforced ghettos to today's survivors writing as part of collective memory Zoë Waxman shows how the conditions and motivations for bearing witness changed immeasurably She reveals the multiplicity of Holocaust experiences the historically contingent nature of victims' responses and the extent to which their identities secular or religious male or female East or West European affected not only what they observed but also how they have written about their experiences In particular she demonstrates that what survivors remember is substantially determined by the context in which they are remembering

English Merchant Shipping 1460-1540 Dorothy Burwash, 1947-12-15 Between 1460 and 1540 the development of merchant shipping was of vital importance to the growth of England as a European power In this work Miss Burwash offers a complete history of the English merchant marine in the late middle ages and early renaissance period Her account includes a description of the size and design of the ships the trades in which they engaged the business arrangements under which they sailed and the codes of maritime law which governed them the wages and conditions of work of the common seaman and the degree of navigational skill of the shipmasters and pilots This was the time when seamen and merchants of northern Europe were beginning to venture out of the familiar home waters and undertake voyages of discovery such as the Bristol expeditions 1501-1504 which in all probability reached Labrador and possibly Greenland The author concludes that although English shipping faced stiff competition from traders and seamen of other countries in northern Europe most particularly the Dutch the period was one of healthy growth which laid a good foundation for the more brilliant and better known exploits of the Elizabethan age Based on extensive and detailed research in manuscript sources preserved in the Public Record Office British libraries and the British Museum this study is an essential one for serious students of English history

Monumenta Juridica ; The Black Book of the Admiralty, with an Appendix ... Travers Twiss, 1871

Walls That Remain John Rodden, 2016-01-08 The Walls That Remain explores the trauma of German reunification in 1990 as it affected ordinary Eastern and Western Germans Told mainly in their own words this book features the voices of those Germans who have suffered as well as profited from the transformations in German society since the fall of the Berlin Wall in 1989 and Germany's reunification in October 1990

Holocaust Memory and the Cold War Anna Koch, Stephan Stach, 2024-10-21 Even before World War II had ended survivors historians writers and artists tried to make sense of the Holocaust To do so they relied on belief systems and narratives that as the bloc confrontation intensified were increasingly shaped by Cold War thinking Foregrounding the Cold War's role in shaping Holocaust memory this book highlights how the global conflict between East and West influenced research legal proceedings and collective as well as individual memories of the murder of European Jews Contributions focusing on different parts of the world reveal commonalities differences and entanglements between Eastern and Western memories of the Holocaust Examining Holocaust memory from various disciplinary perspectives the authors highlight the many ways in which scholars writers artists and survivors both countered and contributed to dominant narratives shaped by oppositional ideological stances While such distinct ideological positions often mattered greatly at other times a shared interest in bringing perpetrators to justice commemorating victims and providing testimony to the atrocities committed against Europe s Jews led to cooperation and exchange across the Iron Curtain

War, the Holocaust and Stalinism Shimon Redlich, 2013-12-19 First Published in 1995 The Jewish Anti Fascist Committee was an organization created by the Soviet authorities as a tool of Soviet war propaganda However the committee gradually assumed a Jewish identity and served as a focus for Jewish problems and concerns Soviet Government Party and Security began to view the committee with suspicion Increasing conservatism and anti Jewish policy rendered the existence of this Jewish organization precarious War Holocaust and Stalinism presents a documented history of the Jewish Anti Fascist Committee in the Soviet Union during the Second World War the Holocaust and the immediate post war years to the end of 1948 It centers upon the tragic fate of Soviet Jewry under both Hitler and Stalin during this most significant period in Jewish history This is the first publication of documents from the newly opening Russian archives primarily from the Russian State Archive and the former Archive of the Communist Party Using previously unpublished material this volume offers a new insight into Soviet and Stalinist policies towards Jews and the JAFC and the decision making processes involved
