Black Beauty: Aesthetics, Stylization, Politics Dr Shirley Anne Tate, 2012-12-28 Previous work discussing Black beauty has tended to concentrate on Black women's search for white beauty as a consequence of racialization Without denying either the continuation of such aesthetics or their enduring power this book uncovers the cracks in this hegemonic Black beauty Drawing on detailed ethnographic research amongst British women of Caribbean heritage this volume pursues a broad discussion of beauty within the Black diaspora contexts of the Caribbean the UK the United States and Latin America through different historical periods to the present day With a unique exploration of beauty race and identity politics the author reveals how Black women themselves speak about negotiate inhabit work on and perform Black beauty As such it will appeal not only to sociologists but anyone working in the fields of race ethnicity and post colonial thought feminism and the sociology of the body

Timely Topics Henry Romaine Pattengill, 1897 Doing Survey Research Peter M. Nardi, 2018-01-03 Each day we are faced with continuing claims made by media pundits politicians teachers and friends often quoting research Consider also the numerous comments and posts on Internet blogs Twitter and Facebook that illustrate the confusion between opinion and factual data How do we learn to interpret the research we hear about and read to distinguish opinions from scientific facts and to use this knowledge to conduct our own studies to answer the questions faced in everyday situations Understanding the components that go into scientific research and learning how to do research make decisions about which statistics to use and analyze statistical findings are goals for everyone in today's research-oriented world. Questions about the reliability and validity of data from a study or public opinion poll come up routinely and need critical review. This book contributes to achieving these objectives. Doing Survey Research is intended for people who want to learn how to conduct quantitative studies for a project in an undergraduate course, a graduate-level thesis, or a survey that an employer may want completed. This brief practical textbook prepares beginners to conduct their own survey research and write up the results as well as read and interpret other people's research. It combines survey design with data analysis and interpretation. And it is for those who need to understand and critically interpret survey research found in scholarly journals, reports distributed in the workplace, and social scientific findings presented online in the media on a blog or in social media postings. Essential new updates to this edition include coverage of Big Data, Meta Analysis, and A/B testing methodology methods used by scholars as well as businesses like Netflix and Amazon. New to this Fourth Edition: Each chapter and its exercises feature updated data and illustrations from current academic and popular articles relevant to today's web-oriented students, including studies focused on topics related to social media. Update web site: <http://doingsurveyresearch.wordpress.com>. New Coverage of Big Data used by popular web sites like Amazon and Netflix and the ethical issues which emerge not only about privacy but also how it relates to the methods discussed in this book about sampling, probability, and research design. New coverage of meta data and the increasingly popular method in many professional and other settings.

Challenging Misrepresentations of Black Womanhood Marquita M. Gammage, Antwanisha Alameen-Shavers, 2019-03-22. Challenging Misrepresentations of Black Womanhood investigates the typecasting of Black womanhood and the larger sociological impact on Black women's self-perceptions. It details the historical and contemporary use of stereotypes against Black women and how these women work to challenge and dispel false perceptions. The book highlights the role of racist ideas in the reproduction and promotion of stereotypes of Black femaleness in media, literature, artificial intelligence, and the perceptions of the general public. Contributors in this collection identify the racist and sexist ideologies behind the misperceptions of Black womanhood and illuminate twenty-first-century stereotypical treatment of Black women such as Michelle Obama and Serena Williams and explore topics such as comedic expressions of Black motherhood, representations of Black women in television dramas and literature, and identity reclamation and self-determination. Challenging Misrepresentations of Black Womanhood establishes the criteria with which to examine the role of stereotypes in the lives of Black women and more specifically its impact on their social and psychological well-being. Style and Status Susannah Walker, 2007-02-23. Between the 1920s and the 1970s, American economic culture began to emphasize the value of consumption over production. At the same time, the rise of new mass media such as radio and television facilitated the advertising and sales of consumer goods on an unprecedented scale. In Style and Status: Selling Beauty to African American Women, 1920-1975, Susannah Walker analyzes an often overlooked facet of twentieth-century consumer society as she explores the political social and racial implications of the business devoted to producing and marketing beauty products for African American women Walker examines African American beauty culture as a significant component of twentieth century consumerism and she links both subjects to the complex racial politics of the era The efforts of black entrepreneurs to participate in the American economy and to achieve self determination of black beauty standards often caused conflict within the African American community Additionally a prevalence of white owned firms in the African American beauty industry sparked widespread resentment even among advocates of full integration in other areas of the American economy and culture Concerned African Americans argued that whites had too much influence over black beauty culture and were invading the market complicating matters of physical appearance with questions of race and power Based on a wide variety of documentary and archival evidence Walker concludes that African American beauty standards were shaped within black society as much as they were formed in reaction to let alone imposed by the majority culture Style and Status challenges the notion that the civil rights and black power movements of the 1950s through the 1970s represents the first period in which African Americans wielded considerable influence over standards of appearance and beauty Walker explores how beauty culture affected black women s racial and feminine identities the role of black owned businesses in African American communities differences between black owned and white owned manufacturers of beauty products and the concept of racial progress in the post World War II era Through the story of the development of black beauty culture Walker examines the interplay of race class and gender in twentieth century America
