Linz, Yogendra Yadav, 2011-03-31 Political wisdom holds that the political boundaries of a state necessarily coincide with a nation s perceived cultural boundaries Today the sociocultural diversity of many polities renders this understanding obsolete This volume provides the framework for the state nation a new paradigm that addresses the need within democratic nations to accommodate distinct ethnic and cultural groups within a country while maintaining national political coherence First introduced briefly in 1996 by Alfred Stepan and Juan J Linz the state nation is a country with significant multicultural even multinational components that engenders strong identification and loyalty from its citizens Here Indian political scholar Yogendra Yadav joins Stepan and Linz to outline and develop the concept further The core of the book documents how state nation policies have helped craft multiple but complementary identities in India in contrast to nation state policies in Sri Lanka which contributed to polarized and warring identities The authors support their argument with the results of some of the largest and most original surveys ever designed and employed for comparative political research They include a chapter discussing why the U S constitutional model often seen as the preferred template for all the world s federations would have been particularly inappropriate for crafting democracy in politically robust multinational countries such as India or Spain To expand the repertoire of how even unitary states can respond to territorially concentrated minorities with some secessionist desires the authors develop a revised theory of federacy and show how such a formula helped craft the recent peace agreement in Aceh Indonesia Empirically thorough and conceptually clear Crafting State Nations will have a substantial impact on the study of comparative political institutions and the conception and understanding of nationalism and democracy Science Diplomacy and Neocolonialism: Lessons from the field with a view to the future Rana Dajani ,Tania Bosqui, Rasha Bayoumi ,Abdullah Awad, 2025-11-06 For the past three decades scientists and policymakers in the Global South have practiced science diplomacy under neocolonial conditions Recent crises including the COVID 19 pandemic and Russia's invasion of Ukraine have further complicated science diplomacy on public health revealing the marginalisation of actors in the Global South Yet existing models practices and modes of engagement in the Global South may subvert and strategically navigate these neocolonial conditions How can these models be collated in a dynamic and flexible way such that knowledge gained through new experiences is used iteratively across contexts How can scientists increase multilateral interdisciplinary and transversal partnerships while navigating complex governmental and international structures For this special issue we call for papers that demonstrate innovative and flexible models for science diplomacy with a focus on public health and health promotion policies We aim to collect evidence across various aspects of public health research which demonstrates the practical role of science diplomacy in the Global South as well as the structural challenges faced on the ground While South America and Asia have received scholarly attention especially in incorporating decolonial thinking and heritage diplomacy less has been studied in the Middle East and Africa Moreover less has been done in framing science diplomacy in terms of neocolonialism in order for its root structure to be constructively challenged Areas to be covered may include but are not limited to building partnerships among stakeholders across the Global South to ensure practical implementation of public health research modes by which scientific research is grounded in local culture and context the role of stakeholders in furthering health promotion including governments the UN NGOs academia and the private sector case studies which balance the participation of researchers from the Global South with the representation of gender ethnicity and disability positioning researchers as protagonists irrespective of geographies and state hierarchies in the international system turning governments financial power in research into a force for the good rather than a tool of neocolonialism
