Robert Grosseteste and the pursuit of Religious and Scientific Learning in the Middle Ages Jack P. Cunningham, Mark Hocknull, 2016-08-29 This book explores a wide range of topics relating to scientific and religious learning in the work of Bishop Robert Grosseteste c 1168 1253 and does so from various perspectives including those of a twenty first century scientists historians and philosophers as well as several medievalists In particular it aims to contribute to our understanding of where to place Grosseteste in the history of science against the background of the famous claim by A C Crombie that Grosseteste introduced what we now might call experimental science and to demonstrate that the polymathic world of the medieval scholar who recognized no dichotomy in the pursuit of scientific and philosophical theological understanding has much to teach those of us in the modern world who wrestle with the vexed question of the relationship between science and religion The book comprises an edited selection of the best papers presented at the 3rd International Robert Grosseteste Conference 2014 on the theme of scientific and religious learning especially in the work of Grosseteste Color,

Healthcare and Bioethics Henk ten Have, 2025-03-28 This book explores the profound yet often overlooked role of color in healthcare and bioethics arguing that color is far more than a visual or aesthetic element it actively shapes human experience perception and ethical reasoning Traditionally regarded as secondary to objective medical observations or rational ethical debates color has been marginalized in these fields considered subjective and inconsequential However this book reveals that color is critical in diagnostic and therapeutic practices and that it subconsciously influences moral interpretations in bioethics Through examples like the blue hour a time of day associated with melancholy and creativity readers are invited to consider color not just as a physical phenomenon explained by wavelengths and visual physiology but as a medium rich with emotional and metaphorical meaning From feeling blue to seeing the world in black and white color conveys complex messages that inform our perceptions of health morality and identity By bridging the gap between science emotion and ethics this book illuminates how colors impact our worldviews urging readers to consider the subtle yet significant ways that color influences our understanding of ourselves and the world around us The Oxford Handbook of the Mental Lexicon Anna Papafragou, John C. Trueswell, Lila R. Gleitman, 2022-01-07 This volume brings together the latest research from leading scholars on the mental lexicon the representation of language in the mind brain at the level of individual words and meaningful sub word units In recent years the study of words as mental objects has grown rapidly across several fields including linguistics psychology philosophy neuroscience education and cognitive science This comprehensive collection spans multiple disciplines topics theories and methods to highlight important advances in the study of the mental lexicon identify areas of debate and inspire innovation in the field from present and future generations of scholars The book is divided into three parts Part I presents modern linguistic and cognitive theories of how the mind brain represents words at the phonological morphological syntactic semantic and pragmatic levels This part also discusses broad architectural issues pertaining to the internal organization of the lexicon the relation between words and concepts and the role of compositionality Part II examines how children learn the form and meaning of words in their native language bridging learner and environment driven contributions and taking into account variability across both individual learners and communities Chapters in the final part explore how the mental lexicon contributes to language use during listening speaking and conversation and includes perspectives from bilingualism sign languages and disorders of lexical access and production
