Historical Empathy and Perspective Taking in the Social Studies Ozro Luke Davis, Elizabeth Anne Yeager, Stuart J. Foster, 2001. Contributors to this volume offer insights from the discipline of history about the nature of empathy and the necessity of examining perspectives on the past. On the basis of recent classroom research, they suggest tested guides to more robust teaching. The contributors insist that with experienced history and social studies teachers, students can learn many historical details and with the use of empathy develop deepened and textured interpretations of the history that they study.

The Dimensions of Time and the Challenge of School Reform Patricia C. Gandara, 2000-01-01. As the education reform movement matures into its second decade, it is clear that many promising efforts have fallen short in their attempts to create real school change. One reason for this is that the process of school reform is much more complex than most reformers realized or were willing to acknowledge. The Dimensions of Time and the Challenge of School Reform points to another problem: the problem of time and its role in both the success and failure of school reform efforts. The importance of understanding the role that time plays in both learning and instruction and finding ways to provide time for teachers grappling with change and students learning to accommodate a new language and culture are important themes in this book. This book is directed to policymakers and practitioners as well as to academics in that it combines theory with the real-world experiences of many who have been active in the school reform movement and who have learned through trial and error how to think about time in innovative ways.

Back cover Language Arts Pamela J. Farris, 2001. In this text, a practical writing style and vivid examples introduce teaching language arts. The text covers the traditional skill-based approach and stresses the need for meeting the developmental needs of students: that is, the learning process as it relates to constructivism, product and content, a student's answer or conclusion, and assessment related to state standards. This edition follows the six English Language Arts standards established by IRA/NCTE.
