A Companion to the Gawain-poet Derek Brewer, Jonathan Gibson, 1997 It ends with a discussion of the reception of the Morte Darthur from the sixteenth to the twentieth centuries and a select bibliography Development and Assessment of Self-Authorship Marcia B. Baxter Magolda, Peggy S. Meszaros, Elizabeth G. Creamer, 2023-07-03 This book brings together new scholarship that expands and refines the concept of self authorship across cultures It adopts a constructive developmental approach to self evolution that emphasizes the interaction of personal characteristics and contextual influences on individuals construction of knowledge identities and relationships Individual chapters cover subjects from populations as varied as Dutch students male and female Bedouin and Jewish adolescents African American male and female adolescents in economically depressed areas of the US Latino college students grappling with ethnic identity and dissonance Australian college females preparing to be childcare workers and finally a comparative study of Japanese and US college students epistemic beliefs The book concludes by addressing questions about the challenges and opportunities involved in developing a valid measure of self authorship that is less time and expertise intensive than the in depth one on one interview employed until now and offering an outline of future theoretical and methodological research needed to further our understanding of self evolution in general and self authorship in particular Authorship's Wake Philip Sayers, 2020-12-10 Authorship's Wake examines the aftermath of the 1960s critique of the author epitomized by Roland Barthes's essay The Death of the Author This critique has given rise to a body of writing that confounds generic distinctions separating the literary and the theoretical Its archive consists of texts by writers who either directly participated in this critique as Barthes did or whose intellectual formation took place in its immediate aftermath These writers include some who are known primarily as theorists Judith Butler others known primarily as novelists Zadie Smith David Foster Wallace and yet others whose texts are difficult to categorize the autofiction of Chris Kraus Sheila Heti and Ben Lerner the autotheory of

The Idea of Authorship in Copyright Lior Zemer, 2017-03-02 As information flows become increasingly ubiquitous in our post-digital environment, the challenges to traditional concepts of intellectual property and the practices deriving from them are immense. The romantic understanding of the lone author as an endless source of new creations has to face these challenges. In order to do so, this work presents a collectivist model of intellectual property rights. The core argument is that since copyright works enjoy profit from significant public contribution, they should not be privately owned but considered to be a joint enterprise made real by both the public and author. It is argued that every copyright work depends on and is reflective of the author's exposure to externalities such as language, culture and the various social events and processes that occur in the public domain; therefore, copyright works should not be regarded as exclusive private property. The study takes its organizing principle from John Locke, defining and proving the fatal flaw inherent in debates on copyright: on the one hand, the copyright community is eager to arm authors with a robust property right over their creation, while on the other, this community totally ignores the fact that the exposure of the individual to externalities is what makes him or her capable of creating material that is copyrightable. Just as Locke was against the absolute authority of kings, the expressed view of the study is against the exclusive right an author can claim.

Introduction to the Attribution of Literature Anna

Faktorovich, 2025-11-19 Introduction to the Attribution of Literature describes the first unbiased and accessible authorship attribution method and uses it to present the first accurate re-attribution of 311 canonical texts from the 18th century to only 10 ghostwriters and 323 texts from the 19th century to 11 ghostwriters. For example, the little-known Sir Francis Cowley Burnand is chronologically, stylometrically and with handwriting analysis proven to be the ghostwriter behind 55 canonical texts, including Emily Brontë's Wuthering Heights, Collins' Woman in White, Doyle's Sherlock Holmes, Kipling's Captain Courageous, Stoker's Dracula, Anthony Trollope's American Senator, Wells' Island of Doctor Moreau, Wilde's Picture of Dorian Gray and Dickens' Great Expectations. This method applies a combination of 23 to 28 different types of punctuation, parts of speech and lexical linguistic tests. Parts of this book offer extensive statistical evidence in support of why this method's findings are quantitatively reliable. If preceding attribution methods had been equally reliable, then they would have also concluded canonical British texts have been overwhelmingly ghostwritten. A section in this book explains the methodological flaws of these preceding attribution approaches, because of which they have incorrectly reaffirmed their canonically accepted bylines. It includes definitions of central stylometric terminology and explains how readers can apply the described strategies.
