Warfare Materiel National Research Council,Division on Engineering and Physical Sciences,Board on Army Science and Technology,Committee on Review of the Conduct of Operations for Remediation of Recovered Chemical Warfare Materiel from Burial Sites,2012-08-21 As the result of disposal practices from the early to mid twentieth century approximately 250 sites in 40 states the District of Columbia and 3 territories are known or suspected to have buried chemical warfare materiel CWM Much of this CWM is likely to occur in the form of small finds that necessitate the continuation of the Army s capability to transport treatment systems to disposal locations for destruction Of greatest concern for the future are sites in residential areas and large sites on legacy military installations The Army mission regarding the remediation of recovered chemical warfare materiel RCWM is turning into a program much larger than the existing munition and hazardous substance cleanup programs The Army asked the Nation Research Council NRC to examine this evolving mission in part because this change is significant and becoming even more prominent as the stockpile destruction is nearing completion One focus in this report is the current and future status of the Non Stockpile Chemical Material Project NSCMP which now plays a central role in the remediation of recovered chemical warfare materiel and which reports to the Chemical Materials Agency Remediation of Buried Chemical Warfare Materiel also reviews current supporting technologies for cleanup of CWM sites and surveys organizations involved with remediation of suspected CWM disposal sites to determine current practices and coordination In this report potential deficiencies in operational areas based on the review of current supporting technologies for cleanup of CWM sites and develop options for targeted research and development efforts to mitigate potential problem areas are identified Scientific and Technical Aerospace Reports ,1994 Shore and Beach ,1995 Navigating Multi-agency NEPA Processes to Advance Multimodal Transportation Projects Donald J. Emerson,Doris Lee,Crystal M. Cummings,Jennifer Thompson,Bridget M. Wieghart,Shelly Brown,2016 This report analyzes approaches taken by state departments of transportation DOTs their local partners and other project sponsors to satisfy National Environmental Policy Act NEPA requirements for transportation projects involving more than one mode Specific objectives of the research were to 1 characterize the challenges inherent in satisfying the NEPA requirements of multiple U S DOT agencies 2 identify strategies and tactics that state and local transportation agencies have used to overcome these challenges and 3 suggest new and innovative strategies that can be applied by state and local transportation agencies in future multimodal NEPA processes Twelve case studies illustrate successful practices and provide examples of institutional arrangements used to comply with NEPA requirements for two or more U S DOT agencies The case studies demonstrated that there is no single best way to approach the NEPA process for multimodal situations Success may depend more on the willingness and motivation of the agencies to work together to find common ground and to work around differing processes and less upon a specific organizational structure An effective interagency approach depends on how well the project sponsor and other agencies are able to work together and bridge their procedural differences Autumn Olive (Elaeagnus Umbellata) ,1992 Government Reports Annual Index ,1991 Engineering News and American Contract Journal ,2008 ENR. ,2008 EPA Publications Bibliography ,1994 New Jersey Register ,2014 Project Management (FM 5-412) Department of the Army,2012-12-01 Field Manual FM 5 412 Project Management is intended for use as a training guide and reference text for engineer personnel responsible for planning scheduling and controlling construction projects in the theater of operations TO It provides planning and management techniques to be applied when planning and scheduling a construction project This manual also provides techniques and procedures for estimating material equipment personnel and time requirements for project completion Management definitions are as varied as the authors who write books about the subject A good definition states that management is the process of getting things done through people Project management may be defined more specifically as the process of coordinating the skill and labor of personnel using machines and materials to form the materials into a desired structure Project construction operations include planning designing facilities procuring materials and equipment and supervising construction An important Army management principle states that continual improvement in systems methods and use of resources is required for continuous effectiveness in operations In most large nontactical Army organizations management engineering staffs help commanders and line operators design new ways to work faster cheaper and better
