Eating Traditional Food Brigitte Sebastia,2016-11-18 Due to its centrality in human activities food is a meaningful object that necessarily participates in any cultural social and ideological construction and its qualification as traditional is a politically laden value This book demonstrates that traditionality as attributed to foods goes beyond the notions of heritage and authenticity under which it is commonly formulated Through a series of case studies from a global range of cultural and geographical areas the book explores a variety of contexts to reveal the complexity behind the attribution of the term traditional to food In particular the volume demonstrates that the definitions put forward by programmes such as TRUEFOOD and EuroFIR and subsequently adopted by organisations including FAO which have analysed the perception of traditional foods by individuals do not adequately reflect this complexity The concept of tradition being deeply ingrained culturally socially politically and ideologically traditional foods resist any single definition Chapters analyse the processes of valorisation instrumentalisation and reinvention at stake in the construction and representation of a food as traditional Overall the book offers fresh perspectives on topics including definition and regulation nationalism and identity and health and nutrition and will be of interest to students and researchers of many disciplines including anthropology sociology politics and cultural studies

Shadows at Noon is an ambitious synthesis of decades of research and scholarship which explores the key strands of South Asian history in the twentieth century with clarity and authority Unlike other narrative histories of the subcontinent that concentrate exclusively on politics here food leisure and the household are given equal importance to discussions of nationhood the development of the state and patterns of migration While it tells the subcontinent's story from the British Raj to independence and partition and on to the forging of the modern nations of India Pakistan and Bangladesh the book's structure is thematic rather than chronological Each of the chapters illuminates an overarching theme or sphere that has shaped South Asia over the course of the century This format allows the reader to explore particular issues such as the changing character of nationalism or food consumption over time and in depth Shadows at Noon is a bold innovative and personal work that pushes back against standard narratives of inherent differences between India Pakistan and Bangladesh Its purpose is to make contemporary South Asia intelligible to readers who are fascinated by the subcontinent's cultural vibrancy and diversity but are often perplexed by its social and political make up And it illuminates the many aspects that its people have in common rather than what divides them Kliatt Young Adult Paperback Book Guide ,1998 Publisher's Monthly ,1995 Ctet
