

EXPERIMENT NO. 4

Aim :- To determine the deflection of a pin connected truss analytically & graphically and verify the same experimentally.

Apparatus:- Truss Apparatus, Weight's, Hanger, Dial Gauge, Scale, Verniar caliper.

Diagram:-

Theory :- The deflection of a node of a truss under a given loading is determined by:

$$\delta = \sum (TUL/AE)$$

Where, δ = deflection at the node point.

T = Force in any member under the given loading.

U = Force in any member under a unit load applied at the point where the deflection is required. The unit load acts when the loading on the truss have been removed and acts in the same direction in which the deflection is required.

L = Length of any member.

A = Cross sectional area of any member.

E = Young's modulus of elasticity of the material of the member.

Here, (L/AE) is the property of the member, which is equal to its extension per unit load. It may be determined for each member separately by suspending a load from it and noting the extension.

Procedure:-

- Detach each spring from the member. Plot extension against load by suspending load from the spring and noting the extension. From the graph, obtain the extension per unit load (stiffness).
- For initial position of the truss, load each node with 0.5 kg load to activate each member. Now place the dial gauges in position for measuring the deflections and note down the initial reading in the dial gauges.
- Also put additional load of 1kg, at L1, 2kg, L2, and 1kg at L3, and note the final reading in the dial gauges. The difference between the two readings will give the desired deflection at the nodal points. Central deflection y.
- Calculate the deflection for the three nodes L1, L2, and L3 from the formula given in Eq. (1) and compare the same with the experimental values obtained in step 3.
