Translation, Pornography, Performativity Douglas Robinson, Xiaorui Sun, 2025-04-11 Robinson and Sun's book goes in search of the neglected metaphors of translation in pornography using poststructuralist rethinkings and reframings of porn and masturbation from Jacques Derrida to Judith Butler In his 1684 Essay on Translated Verse the Earl of Roscommon attacked want of decency in translation metaphorically by comparing it to picking up prostitutes in the park raking the park for stews instead of hanging out with troops of faultless nymphs Sex work and the graphic representation of sex work that Nathaniel Butler was the first to call pornography in print in 1638 is used as a metaphor for non normative translation which in Robinson and Sun's hands becomes experimental translation En route to that goal the authors take us through Butler on performativity and resistance Derrida on supplementarity and iterability and Haun Saussy's innovative application of Derridean citationality to the use of a target cultural sponsor or bondsman for translation They take detours through Charles Baudelaire's Une charogne and J G Ballard's The Drowned Giant They deal with the performativity of pornography and translato-graphy in Part I the unnatural iterability of masturbation and translation in Part II and experimental translation in Part III The theory littered path this book takes through the metaphors of translation will be of interest to scholars and students of translation studies especially experimental translation and translation theory but also media scholars interested in the philosophical complexities of performativity

If Babel Had a Form Tze-Yin Teo, 2022-04-05 The likeness of form between Chinese and English sentences writes the American Sinologist Ernest Fenollosa around 1906 renders translation from one to the other exceptionally easy. If Babel Had a Form asks not if his claim may be true but what its phantasmic surprise may yet do. In twentieth century intersections of China and Asia with the United States translations did more than communicate meaning across politicized and racializing differences of language and nation. Transpacific translation breached the regulative protocols that created those very differences of human value and cultural meaning. The result Tze Yin Teo argues saw translators cleaving to the sounds and shapes of poetry to imagine a translingual likeness of form but not of meaning or kind. At stake in this form without meaning is a startling new task of equivalence. As a concept equivalence has been rejected for its colonizing epistemology of value naming a broken promise of translation and false premise of comparison. Yet the writers studied in this book veered from those ways of knowing to theorize a poetic equivalence negating the colonial foundations of the concept they ignited aporias of meaning into flashpoints for a radical literary translation. The book's transpacific readings glean those forms of equivalence from the writing of Fenollosa the vernacular experiments of Boxer Scholar Hu Shi the trilingual musings of Shanghai born Los Angeles novelist Eileen Chang the minor work of the Bay Area Korean American transmedial artist Theresa Cha and a post Tiananmen elegy by the exiled dissident Yang Lian. The conclusion returns to the deconstructive genealogy of recent debates on translation and untranslatability displacing the axiom of radical alterity for a no less radical equivalence that remains pace Fenollosa far from easy or exceptional. Ultimately If Babel Had a Form illuminates the demanding force of even the slightest sameness entangled in the translator's work of remaking our differences.
