

Practice/Graded Work

There are many cylinders with a volume of 144 cubic inches. The height  $h(r)$  in inches of one of these cylinders is a function of its radius in inches where  $h(r) = \frac{144}{r^2}$ .

1. What is the height one of these cylinders if its radius is 2 inches?

$$\frac{144}{2^2} = 36$$

2. What is the height one of these cylinders if its radius is 3 inches?

$$\frac{144}{3^2} = 16$$

3. What is the height one of these cylinders if its radius is 4 inches?

$$\frac{144}{4^2} = 9$$

4. What is the height one of these cylinders if its radius is 6 inches?

$$\frac{144}{6^2} = 4$$

The surface area  $S(r)$  in square units of a cylinder with a volume of 18 cubic units is a function of its radius  $r$  in units where  $S(r) = 2\pi r^2 + \frac{36}{r}$ .

5. What is the surface area of a cylinder with a volume of 18 cubic units and a radius of 3 units?

$$2\pi 3^2 + \frac{36}{3} = 68.54$$

Han finds an expression for  $S(r)$  that gives the surface area in square inches of any cylindrical can with a specific fixed volume, in terms of its radius in inches. This is the graph Han gets if he allows  $r$  to take on any value between  $-1$  and  $5$ .

6. What would be a more appropriate domain for Han to use instead?

7. What is the approximate minimum surface area for the can?

The Blue Streak Alexander Rein, 2007-01-29 The hacker's approach to Special Relativity grew out of an attempt to demystify the puzzling features of the theory to intelligent but intuition blocked lay persons by a strategy aimed at this particular handicap. The insufficiently understood basic concepts, the most obstinate stumbling blocks, are explained at length. First, the four-dimensional cornerstone of the theory, the all-important Invariant, is presented as a geometric structure analogous to the Diagonal of a box-like Frame of Reference, to which Time is subsequently added as the Fourth Dimension. The exposition of the theory of Special Relativity is primarily intuition-oriented while remaining also geometrically conceptualized and mathematically developed. It is built up from scratch around First Principles, starting out with our primitive notions of Space, Time, and Motion, which are then continually updated and refined. The conceptual tools and terminology for investigating Linear Motion at Uniform Velocity are provided in a step-by-step fashion and always visualized by suitable illustrations. The Spacetime terrain, curved but not spherical, and its domains Past, Present, and Future are defined, mapped, and explained. The standard topics of Special Relativity are individually elaborated in the already introduced step-by-step fashion, and its mathematical results, the equations, are not just displayed in print as usually done in undergraduate textbooks but are actually derived from familiar situations using only elementary algebra, the simplest possible math for the task. These derivations are additionally written out fully in longhand for the benefit of those still inexperienced or whose math has all gone to rust. The Theory of Relativity is covered in sufficient detail to make this book an optional supplement in a college-level physics course. It can also serve as a source of information and insight in high school and adult science clubs, but above all, it was meant to be a self-study manual, a virtual classroom at home, a do-it-yourself tutoring aid. Besides standard fare, two speculative topics are included: 1. a Faster-than-Light chapter dealing with its chief, reputed consequence, the reversal of Time Arrow, once the travel speed has crashed the Light Barrier, and 2. a tentative description of a very, very fast-moving object caught by our wide-open eyes or by a super-fast shutter-speed camera. The book and its intended readership are described in the Preface. Basic concepts and a brief historical background of the theory are given in the Introduction. In Chapters I-XV, you'll find the main topics, and in the Postscript, there are additional comments pertinent to, but reaching above and beyond the contents of this book.
