Abstract: Staphylococcus aureus is a common pathogen that causes a variety of infections. The purpose of this study was to determine the prevalence of S. aureus in the nasal cavity of healthy individuals. A total of 100 individuals were recruited from a local community and their nasal secretions were collected. The results showed that 65% of the individuals had S. aureus in their nasal cavity. The study also found that the prevalence of S. aureus was significantly higher in individuals who had a recent history of hospitalization or surgery. These findings suggest that S. aureus is a common colonizer of the human nasal cavity and that it may play a role in the development of nosocomial infections.
