Journal of a Trapper; Or, Nine Years in the Rocky Mountains, 1834-1843 Osborne Russell, 2013-09. This historic book may have numerous typos and missing text. Purchasers can usually download a free scanned copy of the original book without typos from the publisher. Not indexed. Not illustrated. 1921 edition. Excerpt of Mr Fontanell or his party. They were very insolent and saucy saying we had no right in their country and intimated they could take everything from us if they wished. The next morning after eating breakfast they said if we would give them some tobacco and ammunition they would leave us so we divided our little stock with them. They then persisted in having all and when we refused them telling them we could not spare it one of them seized the sack which contained it while another grasped the Englishman's rifle. We immediately wrenched them out of their hands and told them if they got more they should fight for it. During the scuffle they had all presented their arms but when we gained possession of the rifle and the sack they put down their arms and told us with an envious savage laugh they were only joking but we were too well acquainted with the Crows to relish such capers as mere jokes and wished to get out of their power the easiest way possible as their villages were on either side of us. We then packed up our horses and forded the river and traveled up about six miles and encamped. At the same time the Indians were mounted on our pack horses and riding animals trailing us and the remainder on foot except one who returned towards the village crying. After we had stopped they made a sort of shelter as it looked likely for rain and at night ordered us to go into it and sleep but we bluntly refused and removed our baggage about thirty paces from them. Sitting down reclining against it one of them had taken the only blanket I possessed off my riding saddle and put an old worn out coat in its place with a hint that exchanging was not robbing. They laid down in their shelter and continued to sing their noisy and uncouth.

The Illustrated Voyageur Howard Sivertson, 1996-07-01. The Illustrated Voyageur is a colorful book of paintings and stories depicting the adventures of canoeing through the northern wilderness in the late 1700s. In birchbark canoes the voyageurs paddled on long journeys of 1 000 miles or more following winding chains of lakes and rivers through the spectacular pristine beauty of the north. Thirty one paintings show the rugged canoemen of the North West Company running rapids, portaging, weathering storms, camping and cooking in wild terrain en route to their gala summer rendezvous.
