The Freelands John Galsworthy, 2016-01-12 PROLOGUE One early April afternoon in a Worcestershire field the only field in that immediate landscape which was not down in grass a man moved slowly athwart the furrows sowing a big man of heavy build swinging his hairy brown arm with the grace of strength He wore no coat or hat a waistcoat open over a blue checked cotton shirt flapped against belted corduroys that were somewhat the color of his square pale brown face and dusty hair His eyes were sad with the swimming yet fixed stare of epileptics his mouth heavy lipped so that but for the yearning eyes the face would have been almost brutal He looked as if he suffered from silence The elm trees bordering the field though only just in leaf showed dark against a white sky A light wind blew carrying already a scent from the earth and growth pushing up for the year was early The green Malvern hills rose in the west and not far away shrouded by trees a long country house of weathered brick faced to the south Save for the man sowing and some rooks crossing from elm to elm no life was visible in all the green land And it was quiet with a strange a brooding tranquillity The fields and hills seemed to mock the scars of road and ditch and furrow scraped on them to mock at barriers of hedge and wall between the green land and white sky was a conspiracy to disregard those small activities So lonely was it so plunged in a ground bass of silence so much too big and permanent for any figure of man
