Tuesdays with Morrie – Asking Life's Big Questions

Read over the following statements. Write a number between one and five to indicate how strongly you agree or disagree with a statement. Explain after you feel that way with at least TWO sentences.

1 Strongly Disagree	2	3 Neutral	4	5 Strongly Agree
------------------------	---	--------------	---	---------------------

	STATEMENT	Rating
1	When you wake up every day, you have two choices. You can either be positive or negative, an optimist or a pessimist.
2	Walking with a friend in the dark is better than walking alone in the light.
3	It's good to stand for something, to believe in something and take your life on values.
4	The life of the dead is placed in the memory of the living.
5	Be happy for this moment. This moment is your life.

A Picture Says a Thousand Words

Use your vision with an image of Morrie Salomon. Study the photograph for a few minutes and take in the most details. Think about the way Morrie looks, how he is dressed, the background of the image, and more. In the chart that follows, list what you believe can be deduced to Morrie based on the photograph.

What I Not Noticed in the Photograph:

Opening Hearts by Opening Minds Connie Wineland, 2007-06-01 This book is for Christian readers of fiction who might experience difficulty trying to make an informed choice beyond what is being published by evangelical presses Marketed to a specific target audience evangelical fiction oftentimes leaves a reader with a strong emotional response but lacks the literary depth or the breadth of subject that could inspire life changing spiritual growth With this premise at the heart of her book Connie Wineland includes her own story of conversion to Christianity by way of reading fiction During her late twenties and early thirties particularly while in graduate school Wineland became immersed in literary and rhetorical studies while also practicing an Eastern form of religion as well as Native American spirituality However despite all her training in literary theory her readings in Romantic Victorian modern and postmodern literature which she explains as well as her personal interest in mythology and world religions kept her questioning the existence of God and the possible nature of God Then as a relatively new convert to Christianity she faced several challenges at a small Christian college where she taught literature and writing courses Eventually wanting to reach beyond the academic community Wineland began a local Christian readers group which she ran for four years She includes in this book resources and materials such as sample syllabi and study guide questions useful Web addresses and plenty of how to information for starting and running your own book club Also included is an extensive list of annotated titles of recommended reading to get anyone started

Reading Group Choices 2005 Mark Kaufman, 2004-10 This edition of Reading Group Choices was produced by Pax Associates and lists titles which have been popular sellers and stimulating for group discussion

Reading and the Reference Librarian Juris Dilevko, Lisa Gottlieb, 2014-10-16 Reference librarians are no longer expected to know much about the information they find they are merely expected to find it Technological competency rather than knowledge has become the order of the day In many respects reference service has become a matter of typing search terms into a library's online catalog or a web search engine and providing the patron with the results of the search Calling for a re intellectualization of reference librarianship this book suggests another approach to providing quality reference service reading The authors surveyed both academic reference librarians and public library reference personnel in the United States and Canada about their reading habits From the 950 responses the authors present findings about the extent to which librarians read newspapers periodicals fiction and nonfiction and recount and analyze stories about how reading has made them better librarians The authors also report that North American professors in the humanities and social sciences believe that the best reference librarians are those who have wide ranging subject based knowledge as opposed to the type of process based functional knowledge that is increasingly dominating the curricula of many Library and Information Science programs

The New Heretics Rebekka King, 2023-02-07 Charts the development of progressive Christianity's engagement with modern science, historical criticism, and liberal humanism. Christians who have doubts about the existence of God, who do not believe in the divinity of Jesus, who reject the accuracy of the Bible. The New Heretics explores the development of progressive Christianity, a movement of Christians who do not reject their identity as Christians but who believe Christianity must be updated for today's times and take into consideration modern science, historical criticism, and liberal humanism. Drawing on three years of ethnographic fieldwork in North America, Rebekka King focuses on testimonies of deconversion, collective reading practices, and the ways in which religious beliefs and practices are adapted to fit secular lives. King introduces the concept of lived secularity as a category with which to examine the ways in which religiosity often is entangled with and subsumed by secular identities over and against religious ones. This theoretical framework provides insight into the study of religious and cultural hybridity, new emerging groups such as the nones, atheism, religious apostasy, and multi-religious identities. The New Heretics pays close attention to the ways that progressive Christians understand themselves vis-à-vis a conservative or fundamentalist Christian other, providing context concerning the presumed divide between the religious right and the religious left. King shows that while it might be tempting to think of progressive Christians as atheists, there are religious and moral dimensions to their disbelief. For progressive Christians, the act of questioning and rejecting God alongside other theological tenets is framed as a moral activity. Ultimately, the book showcases the importance of engaging with the ethics of belief in understanding contemporary Christianity.
