

The GPS may take up to 2 minutes to display a fix. If it is unable to obtain a fix (if the view of the sky is obstructed or if the unit is used indoors) then it will display an error.

The most recent fix (with the time and date of the fix) is always displayed.

If the signal from only a limited number of GPS positioning satellites can be received by the Tempus (e.g. because of partial blocking of the sky by objects, buildings etc.) then the fix may be less accurate. In this case the fix will be labelled "Approximate fix" and the reading may be +/-2.5km.

8.10 Actions after Use – Turning the Tempus IC Off

Before switching the Tempus IC off, you should make sure that it is not in use. Make sure that the voice and data links are not in use and that the device is not being used to monitor a patient off-line.

Press and hold the On/Off switch  for 3 seconds. The system will then bring up the dialog shown below and give a 10 second countdown.

The lamp on the On/Off button will change from solid green to flashing orange.

When shutting down, the Tempus IC will show dialog containing a countdown timer from ten seconds. The dialog reminds you to clean and repack Tempus IC using the icon provided.

Option A:

Press  to stop the countdown and bring up the Instrument readings and results screen.

Option B:

Press  to stop the countdown and bring up the Cleaning & Repacking Menu iAssist help process.

Option C:

Let the unit shutdown.

O.

Gray, 2001 This Proceedings contains the papers presented at the 8th IFAC Symposium on Computer Aided Control Systems Design held at Salford UK on 11-13 September 2000. Modelling has emerged as a central issue here and industrial users require the development of modelling languages for both analyses and design as well as generic models and tools which can be used for system identification, optimisation and fault diagnostics. Linear lumped parameter systems of general complexity are currently well addressed by a range of commercially available packages. However, there is a dearth of tools suitable for the analysis and synthesis of large scale distributed non-linear hybrid and stochastic systems which are increasingly a feature in modern manufacturing and process engineering. As the scale of the problems to be addressed increases, there is a need for numerically robust and efficient computational procedures linked to powerful interactive graphical interfaces which maximise the use of limited human resources and of course standardised data bases which can be used with a wide range of analysis and design procedures. Topics covered included the now traditional domains of algorithm architectures and tools and there was a very welcome emphasis on applications where no less than four sessions were devoted to this important aspect.

In 1988 and 1989 large areas in the centre of Worcester were excavated in advance of the construction of a shopping centre, providing a unique opportunity to examine the development of the city. Although little prehistoric evidence was recovered, the project identified the remains of a Roman small town with most intense occupation between the 2nd and 4th centuries. The evidence indicated that ironworking and livestock were two staples of the town's economy. Medieval discoveries included Anglo-Saxon defences, evidence of Anglo-Norman lime burning and metalworking, and the first complete plan of an 11th or 12th century stone hall uncovered in Worcester. A later medieval bronze foundry was also recorded. This substantial and well-presented report publishes descriptions of the archaeological remains with a full chronological synthesis.
