the management of combat casualties it is helpful to divide care into three distinct phases each with its own characteristics and limitations

Tactical Combat Casualty Care TCCC has saved hundreds of lives during our nation's conflicts in Iraq and Afghanistan Nearly 90 percent of combat fatalities occur before a casualty reaches a medical treatment facility Therefore the prehospital phase of care is needed to focus on reducing the number of combat deaths However few military physicians have had training in this area and at the onset of hostilities most combat medics corpsmen and pararescue personnel in the U S military have been trained to perform battlefield trauma care through civilian based trauma courses These courses are not designed for the prehospital combat environment and do not reflect current practices in the area of prehospital care TCCC was created to train Soldiers and medical personnel on current best practices for medical treatment from the point of injury to evacuation to Role 3 facilities

Tactical Combat Casualty Care U.S. Army, A decade of intense combat in two theaters has taught us many lessons about what works and what does not in the effort to accomplish that all important mission of saving lives in battle A severely injured Soldier today has about twice the likelihood of surviving his wounds compared to Soldiers in wars as recent as Vietnam That progress is the result of many things better tactics and weapons better body armor and helmets better trained and fitter Soldiers But the introduction of tactical combat casualty care TCCC throughout the Army has certainly been an important part of that improvement TCCC is fundamentally different from civilian care It is the thoughtful integration of tactics and medicine but to make it work takes a different set of skills and equipment and every Soldier and leader needs to understand it and practice it This handbook is the result of years of careful study of the care of wounded Soldiers painstaking research by medics and physicians and the ability of leaders at all levels to see and understand the lessons being learned and the willingness to make the changes in equipment training and doctrine needed to improve the performance of the Army Health System It is the best guidance we have at the time of publication but new information new techniques or new equipment will drive changes in the future Be assured that these performance improvement efforts will continue as long as American Soldiers go in harm's way
