The Status of Student Involvement in University Governance in Kenya M. Mulinge, N. Arasa, 2017-05-05 This book examines the concept of the democratization of governance in universities in Kenya with particular emphasis on students involvement in governance processes and decision making Data were collected from members of the student community utilizing a structured self administered questionnaire and from purposively selected key informants and focus group discussants drawn from Kenyatta University representing the public sector and the United States International University representing the private sector The guiding argument for the study was that shared governance one of the principles of good governance is critical in enabling the universities to deliver their visions and the missions effectively The results revealed that while in principle Kenyan universities have embraced democratic governance in which all stakeholders including students have a role to play in practice they continue to violate the core principles of good governance particularly shared governance Specifically students who are major stakeholders in university education are largely excluded from significant structures of governance thereby limiting their influence and participation Although their representation is mainly provided via student self governance organs unions associations and or councils their effectiveness is undermined considerably by the lack of trust and confidence of the student body and the unending manipulation by top university administrators and external political actors Student active involvement in decision making is mainly confined to lower levels such as the school faculty and departmental programme The authors call for a paradigm shift in the involvement of students in the governance of universities in ways that discourage the current culture of tokenism and political correctness that characterizes public and private universities in Kenya reviewed and selected from 39 submissions They were organized in topical sections as follows smart infrastructure and urban management data security and digital technologies economic growth and social development health and well being and sustainability and environmental management Global Land Use Intensity Change and Its Impact on Food Security Xueru Zhang, Wei Song, Jinmei Lu, Basanta Paudel,Q. Yuan,2025-09-18 Food security is an important guarantee for world peace and development and has a bearing on the sustainable development and future destiny of humankind The 2023 State of Food Security and Nutrition in the World report released by the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations FAO shows that between 691 and 783 million people worldwide were hungry in 2022 Although the increase in the number of hungry people in the world has slowed down there are still many regions of the world that are sinking deeper into the food crisis If left unchecked the world will not be on track to meet the Sustainable Development Goal of eradicating hunger by 2030 Food security continues to be a global challenge Food security is based on the food system and when the food system is under stress the level of food security is reduced This stress comes from a variety of factors including land use change Land use change and its impacts have become a hotspot and frontier of global change research With the development of human society the structure depth and intensity of land use are constantly changing which directly affects the issue of food security There is a close relationship between regional food security and land use change This Research Topic focuses on land use intensity change and its implications for food security Monitoring and Evaluation in Health and Social Development Stephen Bell,Peter Aggleton,2016-02-01 New approaches are needed to monitor and evaluate health and social development Existing strategies tend to require expensive time consuming analytical procedures The growing emphasis on results based programming has resulted in evaluation being conducted in order to demonstrate accountability and success rather than how change takes place what works and why The tendency to monitor and evaluate using log frames and their variants closes policy makers and practitioners eyes to the sometimes unanticipated means by which change takes place Two recent developments hold the potential to transcend these difficulties and to lead to important changes in the way in which the effects of health and social development programming are understood First there is growing interest in ways of monitoring programmes and assessing impact that are more grounded in the realities of practice than many of the results based methods currently utilised Second there are calls for the greater use of interpretive and ethnographic methods in programme design monitoring and evaluation Responding to these concerns this book illustrates the potential of interpretative methods to aid understanding and make a difference in real people s lives Through a focus on individual and community perspectives and locally grounded explanations the methods explored in this book offer a potentially richer way of assessing the relationships between intent action and change in health and social development in Africa Asia Europe and the Americas The Journal of the East Africa and Uganda Natural History Society ,1911 Kenya Gazette ,1965-07-13 The Kenya Gazette is an official publication of the government of the Republic of Kenya It contains notices of new legislation notices required to be published
