

No century in all history has seen such rapid changes as our own twentieth century. In all the world, no country has seen more dramatic events in the twentieth century than China, home to a quarter of the world's population. And in this century of change and revolution in China, perhaps no-one played a more bewildering variety of roles than Pu Yi, who at the age of three was a god but whose happiest days were spent in his old age as a gardener. It is the story of Pu Yi that is told in the film "The Last Emperor".

China has enjoyed the longest continuous experience of civilised life in the world. Completely remote from the outside world for most of its history, China developed into its own political systems and philosophies, its own methods of farming and manufacturing, its own art and poetry. These are among the most widely admired wherever they are known.

China has suffered, however, from geography and climate. Although an enormous country when viewed on a map, China is made up of several distinct regions, not all of them helpful to human life. In the west and north the country is mountainous and largely barren; over half of China's land is inhospitable in the
