NASA EP. United States. National Aeronautics and Space Administration, 1968 Space Clinical Medicine D.E. Busby, 2012-12-06 Many real and potential hazards will face astronauts during operations in space Some of these hazards might be of little medical significance others might produce serious medical problems This book is an initial attempt to describe the characteristics and suggest the management of possible medical problems which might arise from hazards of space operations Attention is not given here to the so called naturally occurring diseases Writing is oriented to future interplanetary missions during which due primarily to the time required to return to earth the diagnosis and definitive or interim treatment of medical problems will have to be carried out in space It is therefore assumed that suitable diagnostic and treatment facilities and medically trained personnel will be available on advanced spacecraft in which large multidisciplined crews will be living in a comfortable shirt sleeves environment To lay the groundwork of Space Clinical Medicine a field in which very little has been written and essentially no experience gained to date it was found necessary to consider clinical manifestations diagnosis and treatment of possible medical problems in space Wherever necessary various hazards of space operations are defined and analysed in order to determine their possible medical effects The pathologic physiologic characteristics of medical problems are discussed frequently in detail to provide the rationale for their prevention and treatment Infrared Space Interferometry: Astrophysics & the Study of Earth-Like Planets C. Eiroa, A. Alberdi, Harley A. Thronson Jr., T. de Graauw, C.J. Schalinski, 2012-12-06 The past year has produced some of the most exciting results in the history of astronomy particularly in the area of planets outside our solar system Only a half year before our meeting in Toledo Spain the first unambiguous detection of planet sized masses orbiting main sequence stars were reported Since that time evidence for a new exo planet has been reported almost at the rate of about once per month Some of these objects are likely to turn out to be very low mass stars but something like half show characteristics Jupiter like mass and near zero orbital eccentricity which appear to be unique to planets Almost at the same time that giant planets were being discovered regularly the two major space agencies ESA and NASA have identified searches for and detailed study of Earth like planets as a major priority for the future In ESA's Horizon 2000 Plus programme an infrared interferometer has been proposed as a possible future Cornerstone mission Similarly scientists in the US produced the Road Map for the Exploration of Neighboring Planetary Systems ExNPS which provided NASA with a long term plan which leads also to an infrared interferometer in space to study hypothetical Earth like worlds beyond our Solar System Such an observatory is designed to search for the thermal emission from a family of planets using interferometric nulling to remove the contaminating light from the central star
