Charles Dickens (Classic Reprint) Charles Dickens, 2016-06-27 Excerpt from The Letters of Charles Dickens IN publishing this New Edition of The Letters of Charles Dickens in a popular form we have taken great pains to make our work complete ve have carefully revised and corrected the contents of our previous books now condensed chronologically into two volumes With a view to making our selection as perfect as possible we have collected together the letters from Charles Dickens which have already been published in various Biographies and have chosen those which we consider to be of the greatest interest We intend this Collection of Letters to be a Supplement to the Life of Charles Dickens by John Forster That work admirable and exhaustive as a biography is only in complete as regards correspondence 3 the scheme of the book having made it impossible to include in its space any letters or hardly any besides those addressed to Mr Forster As no man ever expressed himself more in his letters than Charles Dickens we believe that in publishing this careful selection from his general correspondence we are supplying a want which has been universally felt Our request for the loan of letters was so promptly and fully responded to that we have been provided with more than sufficient material for our work By arranging the letters in chronological order we find that they very frequently explain themselves and form a narrative of the events of each year Our collection dates from 1833 the commencement of Charles Dickens literary life just before the starting of the Pickwick Papers and is carried on up to the day before his death in 1870 About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original
