The use of U.S.-normed tests with Canadian populations is common practice. Few individual batteries of cognitive and achievement abilities have reported independent validation with Canadian populations. In a random sample of 310 school-age Canadian students, the use of the Woodcock-Johnson III Normative Update (WJ III NU) Tests of Cognitive Abilities and Tests of Achievement with a Canadian sample is examined. Results were compared with a matched sample of U.S. subjects selected from the WJ III NU standardization sample using WJ III NU norms. While some minor score differences are reported across the two samples, the study findings generally support the use of the U.S.-based WJ III NU norms with Canadian school-age populations.

Handbook on the Science of Early Literacy Sonia Q. Cabell, Susan B. Neuman, Nicole Patton Terry, 2024-04-25 Synthesizing the best current knowledge about early literacy this comprehensive handbook brings together leading researchers from multiple disciplines The volume identifies the instructional methods and areas of focus shown to be most effective for promoting young children's PreK 2 growth in reading writing oral language and the connections among them In 33 chapters the Handbook covers conceptual foundations development and instruction of both code and meaning related literacy skills professional development and family engagement supporting equity across populations and learning beyond traditional boundaries including digital and out of school contexts Highlighted throughout are issues around access to high quality instruction working with multilingual populations and data based decision making and interventions The Handbook of Intellectual Disability and Clinical Psychology Practice Alan Carr, Christine Linehan, Gary O'Reilly, Patricia

Noonan Walsh, John McEvoy, 2016-04-12 The Handbook of Intellectual Disability and Clinical Psychology Practice will equip clinical psychologists in training with the skills necessary to complete a clinical placement in the field of intellectual disability. Building on the success of the previous edition, this handbook has been extensively revised. Throughout the text, references and website addresses have been updated to reflect important developments since the publication of the first edition. Recent research findings on the epidemiology, aetiology, course, outcome, assessment and treatment of all psychological problems considered in the book have been incorporated into the text. Account has been taken of changes in the diagnosis and classification of intellectual disability and psychological problems reflected in the AAIDD 11 and the DSM 5. New chapters on the assessment of adaptive behaviour and support needs, person-centred active support and the assessment of dementia in people with intellectual disability have been added. The book is divided into eight sections. Section 1 covers general conceptual frameworks for practice, diagnosis, classification, epidemiology and lifespan development. Section 2 focuses on assessment of intelligence, adaptive behaviour, support needs, quality of life and the processes of interviewing and report writing. Section 3 covers intervention frameworks, specifically active support, applied behavioural analysis and cognitive behaviour therapy. Section 4 deals with supporting families of children with intellectual disability, genetic syndromes and autism spectrum disorders. Section 5 covers issues associated with intellectual disability first evident or prevalent in middle childhood. Section 6 deals with adolescent concerns, including life skills training, relationships and sexuality. Section 7 focuses on residential, vocational and family-related challenges of adulthood and aging. Section 8 deals with professional issues and risk assessment. Chapters cover theoretical and empirical issues on the one hand and practice issues on the other. They close with summaries and suggestions for further reading for practitioners and families containing a member with an intellectual disability. Where appropriate, in many chapters, practice exercises to aid skills development have been included. The second edition of the Handbook of Intellectual Disability and Clinical Psychology Practice is one of a set of three volumes which cover the lion's share of the curriculum for clinical psychologists in training in the UK and Ireland. The other two volumes are the Handbook of Child and Adolescent Clinical Psychology, Third Edition, by Alan Carr, and the Handbook of Adult Clinical Psychology Practice, Second Edition, edited by Alan Carr. Literacy in Deaf Individuals Donna Morere, Thomas Allen, 2012-12-09 Humans' development of literacy has been a recent focus of intense research from the reading, cognitive and neuroscience fields. But for individuals who are deaf, who rely greatly on their visual skills for language and learning, the findings don't necessarily apply, leaving theoretical and practical gaps in approaches to their education. Assessing Literacy in Deaf Individuals: Neurocognitive Measurement and Predictors narrows these gaps by introducing the VL2 Toolkit, a comprehensive test battery for assessing the academic skills and cognitive functioning of deaf persons who use sign language. Skills measured include executive functioning, memory, reading, visuospatial ability, writing fluency, math and expressive and receptive language. Comprehensive data are provided for each with discussion of validity and reliability issues as well as ethical and legal questions involved in the study And background chapters explain how the Toolkit was compiled describing the procedures of the study its rationale and salient characteristics of its participants This notable book Describes each Toolkit instrument and the psychometric properties it measures Presents detailed findings on test measures and relationships between skills Discusses issues and challenges relating to visual representations of English including fingerspelling and lipreading Features a factor analysis of the Toolkit measures to identify underlying cognitive structures in deaf learners Reviews trends in American Sign Language assessment Assessing Literacy in Deaf Individuals is an essential reference for researchers graduate students clinicians and other professionals working in the field of deafness and deaf education across in such areas as clinical child and school psychology audiology and linguistics
