The Lord Is My Shepherd and That'S Enuff Leda Rafter, 2017-10-16 One of the greatest witnessing tools is the daily life we live as we interact with our peers and family At the age of thirteen I accepted the Lord as my personal Savior in a small church in Elyria Ohio Never has there been a moment since that day that I did not love the Lord and want to remain faithful to him Divorce and the loss of two children drew me to my knees knowing that I needed God more during those times than ever But my precious mother and father Evalee and Walter Matney taught me the ways of the Lord living a life before me that even at the age of seventy four they are still with me The devotions within this book include stories of my own from childhood and through adolescence to raising my children and into my senior years There are times that I fell to my knees asking God for wisdom and knowledge not knowing what to do But intimate experiences with the Lord gave me the hope I needed to continue my journey of faith I hope as you go through these 365 interpersonal devotions you will encounter the love of God in a powerful new way May the Lord Jesus Christ bless and keep you Truly the Lord is my Shepherd and thats enuff

Stigmatization is part of the everyday lives of children with disabilities, their families, and friends. Negative social encounters, even with perfect strangers, can dampen joyful occasions, add stress to challenging situations, and lead to social isolation. In this book, we describe a program of research spanning a decade that seeks to understand disabilities in their developmental and cultural contexts. We are especially interested in understanding adults' socialization practices that promise to reduce stigmatization in the next generation. Guided by developmental cultural psychology, including the concept of universalism without uniformity, we focus on the understandings and responses to disability and associated stigmatization of elementary school educators practicing in Japan, Taiwan, South Korea, and the US. Educators from all four cultural groups expressed strikingly similar concerns about the impact of stigmatization on the emerging cultural self, both of children with disabilities and their typically developing peers. Educators also described culturally nuanced socialization goals and practices pertaining to inclusive education. In Japan, for instance, educators emphasized the importance of peer group belonging and strategies to support the participation of children with disabilities. In the US, educators placed relatively more emphasis on individual development and discussed strategies for the equitable treatment of children with disabilities. Educators in Taiwan and South Korea emphasized the cultivation of compassion in typically developing children. The understanding gained through examination of how diverse individuals address common challenges using cultural resources available in their everyday lives provides important lessons for strengthening theory policy and programs
