Application of Plant Biodiversity for Improving Nutrient Cycling Katja Witzel, Christoph Martin Geilfus, Christian Roger Marc Hermans, 2022-11-14 The current agricultural plant production system is dominated by mono cropping with genetically uniform cultivars This genetic erosion has led to a displacement of locally adapted landraces and cultivars and poses a serious threat to plant productivity in stressed agro ecosystems The adaptation of crops to drought heat salinity and low soil fertility is becoming paramount due to global climate change Utilizing exotic or underused germplasms as a source of adaptive traits is a largely untapped way to ensure a stable yield The task to apply biodiversity in crop production to confer food security and sustainability was acknowledged by the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations and reflected by the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals In many parts of the world poor soil fertility threatens yield stability Therefore the soil nutrient reserve must be replenished to sustain crop yield Mineral fertilizer in excess however is detrimental to the environment For instance elevated loads of nitrogen phosphorus or chlorine pollute water bodies and impact on biodiversity Major anticipated concerns for our agricultural systems are the limitation in phosphorus temperature increase extreme and unpredictable weather events and salinity Therefore environmentally friendly strategies to optimize nutrient cycling are urgently required and this involves increasing nutrient use efficiency In the face of climate change it is necessary to mine crop biodiversity to increase nutrient uptake and usage and to help implement a Zero Waste concept in plant nutrition This Research Topic is intended to provide an updated view on the use of crop biodiversity to open new avenues for improved nutrient cycling We welcome contributions Original Research Review Mini Review and Perspective covering any of the following aspects Studies on improving nutrient fluxes through control of production factors both in controlled environments and in the field horticulture agriculture Screening and application of genebank material for improved nutrient use efficiency Studies on the effect of combining novel crop species multi cropping intercropping rotations cover cropping on crop performance and nutrient availability Effect of mutualistic species mycorrhiza or bacteria on nutrient cycling e g improvement of nutrient uptake and by mutualism Climate change driven effects on nutrient cycling e g how do different temperatures precipitation influence nutrient cycling through soils

Teaching IFRS Richard M.S. Wilson, Ralph Adler, 2013-09-13 The increasing pace of global conformance towards the adoption of International Financial Reporting Standards IFRS highlights the need for accounting students as well as accounting practitioners to be conversant with IFRS Teaching IFRS offers expert descriptions of and insights into the IFRS convergence process from a teaching and learning perspective Hence this book is both timely and likely to have considerable impact in providing guidance for those who teach financial reporting around the world The contents of the book come from authoritative sources and offer something distinctive to complement the existing textbooks which typically focus on the technical aspects of IFRS and their adoption Drawing upon the experiences of those who have sought to introduce IFRS related classroom innovations and the associated student outcomes achieved therefrom the book offers suggestions about how to design and deliver courses dealing with IFRS and catalogues extensive listings of IFRS related teaching resources to support those courses This book was originally published as a special issue of Accounting Education An international journal
