

True Love in 'Romeo and Juliet' by William Shakespeare

9 pages | 2107 words

Romeo and Juliet is a play that was written at the end of the 1500s by William Shakespeare. It is a tragedy revolving around the relationship between the two main characters, Romeo and Juliet. There is also the underlying subplot of the feuding Capulet and Montague families and how this affects the relationship of the two young lovers. The play starts with the chorus giving some background information and an advertisement of what is to come, which is in the form of a sonnet. This helps give the reader a picture of what the two families relationship is and how this stems from an "ancient grudge" which will come to affect the star-cross'd lovers. It also makes clear to the audience that the play is a tragedy when they talk about their "death-mark'd love", showing that in the it will end in their death. The opening scene of the play starts with Romeo being sad and depressed, with Benvolio trying to find out what the matter is, as Romeo is being "so secret and so close" with his feelings. Benvolio eventually finds out that Romeo is depressed as he is "out of her favour where I am in love". This shows that at the moment he believes that he is in love with Rosaline, despite him only knowing her for a short time and the feelings not being reciprocated as she has taken an oath of chastity and will not be persuaded to change her mind by Romeo. Eventually Benvolio manages to convince Romeo that he should come to the party with him, despite Romeo assuring him that "thou canst not teach me to forget", making the audience think he may well be in love. Before going to the party, Benvolio assures Romeo that he will help him get over Rosaline and move on to someone else. Benvolio say how if Romeo will "compare her face with some that I shall show, and I will make thee think thy swan a crow". This metaphor shows how he believes that looks count more than anything in love, and that he believes as soon as he shows Romeo, a girl who is more attractive than Rosaline, he will be able to move on. Romeo also seems to believe that looks are the most important thing, although he still believes that he is in love and will not be able to get over Rosaline as "the all-seeing sun ne'er saw her match since the world begun". The previous scenes make the audience start to believe that Romeo may well be in love, despite it being based on looks. However, when he gets to the party he soon forgets about Rosaline, when he sees Juliet. When describing her he uses metaphors and imagery like describing her as a "snowy dove trooping with the crows", proving Benvolio was right. Romeo also goes on to question, "did my heart love till now?" as he has never felt this way before, despite never having actually met Juliet, and despite saying that Rosaline was the most beautiful person in the world, he now declares that he "ne'er saw...

Oliveira, 2019-01-17 This practitioner based book provides different approaches for reaching an increasing population in today's schools: English language learners (ELLs). The recent development and adoption of the Common Core State Standards for English Language Arts and Literacy in History/Social Studies, Science and Technical Subjects (CCSS ELA Literacy), the Common Core State Standards for Mathematics, the C3 Framework and the Next Generation Science Standards (NGSS) highlight the role that teachers have in developing discipline specific competencies. This requires new and innovative approaches for teaching the content areas to all students. The book begins with an introduction that contextualizes the chapters in which the editors highlight transdisciplinary theories and approaches that cut across content areas. In addition, the editors include a table that provides a matrix of how strategies and theories map across the chapters. The four sections of the book represent the following content areas: English language arts, mathematics, science and social studies. This book offers practical guidance that is grounded in relevant theory and research and offers teachers suggestions on how to use the approaches described.

The Flame of Eternity Krzysztof Michalski,2013-12-26 The Flame of Eternity provides a reexamination and new interpretation of Nietzsche s philosophy and the central role that the concepts of eternity and time as he understood them played in it According to Krzysztof Michalski Nietzsche s reflections on human life are inextricably linked to time which in turn cannot be conceived of without eternity Eternity is a measure of time but also Michalski argues something Nietzsche viewed first and foremost as a physiological concept having to do with the body The body ages and decays involving us in a confrontation with our eventual death It is in relation to this brute fact that we come to understand eternity and the finitude of time Nietzsche argues that humanity has long regarded the impermanence of our life as an illness in need of curing It is this pathology that Nietzsche called nihilism Arguing that this insight lies at the core of Nietzsche s philosophy as a whole Michalski seeks to explain and reinterpret Nietzsche s thought in light of it Michalski maintains that many of Nietzsche s main ideas including his views on love morality beyond good and evil the will to power overcoming the suprahuman or the overman as it is infamously referred to the Death of God and the myth of the eternal return take on new meaning and significance when viewed through the prism of eternity
