

Solving Equations

An equation is a mathematical expression that contains an equals sign.

 Examples

$$y + 6 = 0$$

$$3(x - 3) = 12$$

$$\frac{2x + 2}{4} = \frac{x - 3}{3}$$

$$2x^2 + 3x - 2 = 0$$

There are two sides to an equation, with the left side being equal to the right side. We can solve equations to work out the value of the unknown(s) or variables that satisfy the equation.

Functional Equations and How to Solve Them

Christopher G. Small,2007-04-03 Over the years a number of books have been written on the theory of functional equations However very little has been published which helps readers to solve functional equations in mathematics competitions and mathematical problem solving This book fills that gap The student who encounters a functional equation on a mathematics contest will need to investigate solutions to the equation by finding all solutions or by showing that all solutions have a particular property The emphasis here will be on the development of those tools which are most useful in assigning a family of solutions to each functional equation in explicit form At the end of each chapter readers will find a list of problems associated with the material in that chapter The problems vary greatly with the easiest problems being accessible to any high school student who has read the chapter carefully The most difficult problems will be a reasonable challenge to advanced students studying for the International Mathematical Olympiad at the high school level or the William Lowell Putnam Competition for university undergraduates The book ends with an appendix containing topics that provide a springboard for further investigation of the concepts of limits infinite series and continuity Two Important Invariant Tasks in Solving Equations Anibal Cortes,Nelly Kavafian,2006 Our study concerns the analysis of teacher and student activities Secondary school 6th grade students were confronted for the first time with solving equations We used our cognitive models of students and experts in algebraic calculations for analyzing the teaching process and the cognitive functioning of students Our model led us to consider the management of mathematical justifications as a fundamental teachers task We believe that these models can become a daily tool for teachers and principally for newer teachers For complete proceedings see ED489632
