The 4IR and teacher education in South Africa Felix Maringe, Otilia Chiramba, 2024-02-26 The 4IR has become an overarching framework within which education systems including teacher education are operating Contingent upon the ideology of neo liberalism the 4IR seeks to transform societies in ways which respond to the relentless developments in technology the Internet and digital capacities which by design and intent are purposed at increasing both productivity and the associated quality while at the same time reducing human intervention in the same processes In teacher education how we teach and train student teachers will be substantially influenced by the imperatives of the 4IR There are multiple unresolved questions as the 4IR takes centre stage For example what will it mean for teaching and learning in schools that have severe technological and digital deficits for teachers and students who have minimal technological literacies for delivering high quality teaching and learning for transforming both the content and pedagogies of teacher education and above all for delivering socially just educational experiences for all our learners regardless of class race and privilege The discourse of the 4IR is contemporary and requires multiple perspectives to explore what it means in different contexts and settings the understandings it engenders in people what it implies across a wide range of educational decision making levels and that its fundamental assumptions cohere with national and societal assumptions about equality equity and social justice Multiple methodological approaches were utilised in the interrogation of the idea of the 4IR in teacher education in South Africa including theoretical empirical and small scale case studies amongst others The data these approaches provide are equally valued based on the purposes for which they have been derived

It highlights a range of social geographic and cultural issues which impact the way rural communities experience the justice system throughout the world with chapters on Australia Canada England Ireland Kenya Northern Ireland South Africa Syria Turkey the USA and Wales. Each chapter explores three questions: 1 How do people experience the institutions of justice in rural areas and how does this rural experience differ to an urban experience? 2 What impact have changes in policy had on the justice system in rural areas and have rural and urban areas been affected in different ways? 3 What impact does the law have on people's lives in rural areas and what would rural communities like to be better understood about their experience of the justice system?
