Johnson,Andreas Herrmann,Frank Huber,Anders Gustafsson,2012-12-06 The intensely competitive global automotive industry is in the midst of both a quality evolution and management transformation In an evolutionary fashion industry attention has progressed from a focus on internal quality to external perceptions of customer satisfaction to subsequent customer retention and profitability. More transformational is the change in the way automotive companies operate and manage themselves. An industry once dominated at a product level by engineering and a management level by finance is becoming a cross functional customer oriented industry. Understanding the links from quality to satisfaction to retention has become a key to financial and organizational success as the automotive industry enters the new millennium. We are fortunate in this regard to have assembled a diverse group of both academic and automotive industry contributors to offer a variety of insights into these links. After describing the ongoing changes in the automotive industry in more detail, this introductory chapter describes a framework for linking quality, satisfaction and retention. The framework is used to introduce each of the individual chapters and highlight its contribution. Although our primary emphasis is on the automotive industry, the implications of the research and lessons learned extend far beyond. If anything, the automotive industry is a prototypical competitive global industry that faces a myriad of business issues. These include among others issues pertaining to product development, service development, process improvement, product quality, service quality, supplier relationships, internal customer satisfaction, external customer satisfaction, retailing, promotion, pricing, franchising and technology management.

Automotive Production Systems and Standardisation Constanze Clarke, 2005-04-13. In January 2000 Mercedes Benz started to implement the Mercedes Benz Production System (MPS) throughout its world wide passenger car plants. This event is exemplary of a trend within the automotive industry: the creation and introduction of company specific standardised production systems. It gradually emerged with the introduction of the Chrysler Operating System (COS) in the mid 1990s and represents a distinct step in the process towards implementing the universal principles of lean thinking as propagated by the MIT study. For the academic field of industrial sociology and labour policy, the emergence of this trend seems to mark a new stage in the evolution of the debate about production systems in the automotive industry. Jürgens 2002: 2 particularly as it seems to undermine the stand of the critics of the one best way model. Boyer and Freysenet 1995. The introduction of company level standardised production systems marks the starting point of the present study. At the core of it is a case study about the Mercedes Benz Production System (MPS). Hearings, Reports and Prints of the Senate Select Committee on Small Business United States. Congress. Senate. Select Committee on Small Business, 1967. Floyd Clymer's Auto Topics, 1965.
