KES conferences attract a wide range of interest. The broad focus of the conference series is the theory and applications of computational intelligence and emergent technologies. Once purely a research field, intelligent systems have advanced to the point where their abilities have been incorporated into many conventional application areas. The quest to encapsulate human knowledge and capabilities in domains such as reasoning, problem solving, sensory analysis and other complex areas has been avidly pursued. This is because it has been demonstrated that these abilities have definite practical applications. The techniques long ago reached the point where they are being exploited to provide commercial advantages for companies and real beneficial effects on profits. KES 2004 provided a valuable mechanism for delegates to obtain a profound view of the latest intelligent systems research into a range of algorithms, tools and techniques. KES 2004 also gave delegates the chance to come into contact with those applying intelligent systems in diverse commercial areas. The combination of theory and practice represents a uniquely valuable opportunity for appreciating the full spectrum of intelligent systems activity and the state of the art.

Artificial Intelligence in Design '00 John S. Gero, 2012-12-06. Designing is one of the foundations for change in our society. It is a fundamental precursor to manufacturing, fabrication and construction. Design research aims to develop an understanding of designing and to produce models of designing that can be used to aid designing. The papers in this volume are from the Sixth International Conference on Artificial Intelligence in Design (AID 00) held in June 2000 in Worcester, Massachusetts, USA. They represent the state of the art and the cutting edge of research and development in this field and demonstrate both the depth and breadth of the artificial intelligence paradigm in design. They point the way for the development of advanced computer-based tools to aid designers and describe advances in both theory and application. This volume will be of particular interest to researchers, developers and users of advanced computer systems in design.
