Delayed Project Terminations in the Venture Capital Context Dominik Steinkühler, 2010 Venture capital plays an important role in the entrepreneurial process of providing financing and management support to young rapidly growing companies While venture capital investment success stories such as those of Microsoft Apple and Google are well known such home runs are rather rare Many investments provide little or no return so that accurately evaluating the prospects of portfolio companies and terminating further engagement in unsuccessful ventures in time is key to the overall portfolio performance of venture capital firms When venture capitalists act rationally it should be expected that investment terminations are neither systematically premature nor systematically delayed However recent studies have discovered a systematic tendency toward delayed project terminations of unsuccessful investments that cannot be reconciled with a model of rational decision making The present study examines such delayed project terminations in the venture capital industry and investigates whether escalation of commitment may provide an appropriate perspective on the phenomenon and contribute to its explanation The study develops a comprehensive theoretical framework that synthesizes and integrates several economically irrational drivers of project escalation A large scale survey among European venture capitalists provides the basis for the empirical analysis of the hypothesized relationships The analysis yields valuable new insights into the interaction of different escalation drivers which are much more intertwined than previously supposed by the literature and permits to suggest effective escalation countermeasures for practice The considerations and findings of the study are generalizable beyond the venture capital context to a wide variety of settings in which organizations routinely make sequential investment decisions

A User Acceptance of Web Personalization Systems Dr. Fendi Ameen, 2014-10-09 Research on web personalization techniques for collecting and analysing web data in order to deliver personalized information to users is in an advanced state Many metrics from the computational intelligence field have been developed to evaluate the algorithmic performance of Web Personalization Systems WPSs However measuring the success of a WPS in terms of user acceptance is difficult until the WPS is deployed in practice In summary many techniques exist for delivering personalized information to a user but a comprehensive measure of the success in WPSs in terms of human interaction and behaviour does not exist This study aims to develop a framework for measuring user acceptance of WPSs from a user perspective The proposed framework is based on the unified theory of acceptance and use of technology UTAUT The antecedents of user acceptance are described by indicators based on four key constructs i e performance expectancy PE effort expectancy EE social influence SI and facilitating conditions FC All these constructs are underpinned by Information Systems IS theories that determine the intention to use BI and the actual use USE of a technology A user acceptance model was proposed and validated using structural equation modelling SEM via the partial least squares path modelling PLS PM Four user characteristics i e gender age skill and experience have been chosen for testing the moderating effects of the four constructs The relationship between the four constructs in regard to BI and USE has been validated through moderating effects in order to present an overall view of the extent of user acceptance of a WPS Results from response data analysis show that the acceptance of a WPS is determined through PE EE SI and FC The gender of a user was found to moderate the relationship between performance expectancy of a WPS and their behavioural intention in using a WPS The effect of behavioural intention on the use of WPS is higher for a group of females than for males Furthermore the proposed model has been tested and validated for its explanation power of the model and effect size The current study concluded that predictive relevance of intention to use a WPS is more effective than the actual WPS usage which indicated that intention to use has more prediction power for describing a user acceptance of a WPS The implications of these measures from the computational intelligent point of view are useful when a WPS is implemented For example the designer of a WPS should consider personalized design features that enable the delivery of relevant information sharing to other users and accessibility across many platforms Such features create a better web experience and a complete security policy These measures can be utilized to obtain a higher attention rate and continued use by a user the features that define user acceptance of a WPS Entrepreneurship and Development in the 21st Century Bruno S.
