Going to University. The Influence of Higher Education on the Lives of Young South Africans Jennifer Case,Delia Marshall,2018-02-09 Around the world more young people than ever before are attending university Student numbers in South Africa have doubled since democracy and for many families higher education is a route to a better future for their children But alongside the overwhelming demand for higher education questions about its purposes have intensified Deliberations about the curriculum culture and costing of public higher education abound from student activists academics parents civil society and policy makers We know from macro research that South African graduates generally have good employment prospects But little is known at a detailed level about how young people actually make use of their university experiences to craft their life courses And even less is known about what happens to those who drop out This accessible book brings together the rich life stories of 73 young people six years after they began their university studies It traces how going to university influences not only their employment options but also nurtures the agency needed to chart their own way and to engage critically with the world around them The book offers deep insights into the ways in which public higher education is both a private and public good and it provides significant conclusions pertinent to anyone who works in and cares about universities

Versus Price Xiaoling Ang,2016 We show that changes in choice architecture have a large effect on student loan decisions while we do not find significant effects of sizeable interest rate changes We evaluate the effect of two policies implemented in

2010 by the U S Department of Education 1 the requirement that all applicants for private student loans fill out a Self Certification Form which includes various disclosures about federal aid and 2 the prohibition of presenting a private student loan as a default option on a financial aid offer without disclosure of the relationship between the school and the creditor Using difference and difference and matching techniques on a proprietary dataset of private student loan originations from the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau and survey and administrative data from the Department of Education we show that these changes decreased private student loan originations by 33% at public four year institutions 18% at private not for profit four year institutions and 55% at four year for profit institutions In contrast we find no consumer response when analyzing 60 basis point decrease in the price of federal Parental PLUS loans at some schools using same datasets and similar estimation techniques

Student Loans and Social Mobility Mehran Ebrahimian,2020 Students of poor families invest much less than rich families in college education To assess the role of financing constraints and subsidy schemes in explaining this gap I structurally estimate an IO finance model of college choice in the presence of financing frictions The estimation uses novel nationally representative data on US high school and college students I propose a novel identification strategy that relies on bunching at federal Stafford loan limits and differences between in and out of state tuition I find that the college investment gap is mainly due to fundamental factors heterogeneity in preparedness for college and the value added of college rather than financing constraints faced by lower income students Making public colleges tuition free would substantially reduce student debt but it would disproportionately benefit wealthier students and it would entail more than 15B deadweight loss per year by distorting college choices Expanding Pell grants in contrast would benefit lower income students at a much lower cost
