Christian Churches and Nigeria's Political Economy of Oil and Conflict Nkem Emerald Osuigwe, 2014-09-18 The received account on African evangelical Christianity regarding social witness in a section of Western scholarship is that it is anti development and a political Such an account heavily draws from an instrumentalist and functionalist assessment of such Christianity without recourse to its emic perspective Using the case study method this book presents an ethnographic examination of this functionalist reading by investigating describing and analysing evangelical Christian theological and socio political consciousness within the context of oil and conflict in Nigeria s Niger Delta region Adopting approaches from practical theology congregational studies and anthropology of religion the author challenges such a reading using data gathered from three congregations in the region His discourse revolves around answers to the following four critical questions What are the underlying theological issues and beliefs of Nigerian evangelical Christians within the context of oil and conflict What is their prevalent praxis within the context of Nigeria s political economy of oil and conflict How accurate is the received account that African evangelical and fundamentalist Christianity lacks social responsibility and is a political and anti development What would a contextual political theology for Nigeria s political economy of oil look like The theological issues are varied and the prevalent praxis nuanced which then serves as a veritable critique of the claim that African evangelical Christianity lacks social responsibility due to its preoccupation with soul winning Whereas such Christianity places much emphasis on the winning of souls as an expression of its spirituality it is neither oblivious nor indifferent to its socio political milieu Rather it sees such spirituality as a form of political praxis Some of the trajectories of the spirituality include a theology of conversion a theology of prayer and an ethics of crude oil with Total Freedom as the nomenclature for the specific theological perspective offered for Nigeria s political economy of oil While locating this theological perspective within the taxonomy of Liberation Theology the affinity and dissonance between the two are identified

Re-imagining African Christologies Victor I. Ezigbo, 2010-02-08 Who do you say that I am Mark 8:29 is the question of Christology By asking this question Jesus invites his followers to interpret him from within their own contexts history experience and social location Therefore all responses to Jesus's invitation are contextual But for too long many theologians particularly in the West have continued to see Christology as a universal endeavor that is devoid of any contextual influences This understanding of Christology undermines Jesus's expectations from us to imagine and appropriate him from within our own contexts In Re-imagining African Christologies Victor I. Ezigbo presents a constructive exposition of the unique ways that many African theologians and lay Christians from various church denominations have interpreted and appropriated Jesus Christ in their own contexts He also articulates the constructive contributions that these African Christologies can make to the development of Christological discourse in non-African Christian communities Aladura: a Religious Movement

Among the Yoruba John David Yeadon Peel, 1968 Muslim Civic Cultures and Conflict Resolution John N.

Paden, 2006-03-30 The question of whether Islam is compatible with democracy may best be answered not from the classical sources or even from the cauldron of Middle East politics but from the lived experiences of Muslim communities around the world In large and diverse countries the varied political values of different cultures can make or break the democratic experiment Regardless of their cultural context transitions from military to civilian rule require attention to the grassroots civic cultures that form the foundations of democratic federalism John Paden a noted expert on West African and Islamic societies uses Nigeria as a critical case study of how a diverse country with a significant Muslim population is working to make the transition to a democratic society Although little studied the non-Arab Muslim communities of West Africa are an important indicator as to whether Islamic democracy in a diverse nation is possible Nigeria's success is vital to regional and global stability As the largest country in Africa with a population that is about half Muslim and half Christian or traditional animist Nigeria is also the seventh largest producer of oil in the world and has gone through a series of political traumas ranging from civil war to military rule The current democratic government is trying to balance rule of law concerns at a time when many communal tensions are coming to the surface Muslim Civic Cultures and Conflict Resolution in Nigeria takes us inside the complex world of Nigerian politics with a focus on the ways Muslim civic cultures deal with matters of leadership and conflict resolution The book provides an essential context to the current international concern with issues ranging from Shari'a law and communal violence to the broader war on terrorism It argues that the requirement for regional political cooperation serves as a counterbalance to more extreme forms of political expression Paden shows that if the Nigerian political model of Africana Marburgensia, 1991 How to Become a Big Man in Africa Wale Adebani, 2024-08-06 Can subalterns transform themselves into members of the elite and what does it take to do so And how do those efforts reveal the nature of ethnic politics in postcolonial Africa How to Become a Big Man in Africa Subalternity Elites and Ethnic Politics in Contemporary Nigeria examines these questions by revealing how through ethno regional conflict violence and cultural activities an artisan Gani Adams transformed himself into the holder of the most prestigious chieftaincy title among the Yoruba Addressing persistent gaps in anthropological studies of the subaltern and of big men in politics through in depth biography and rich social history Wale Adebani follows Adams and other major figures in Nigeria's Oodua People's Congress OPC over two decades of ethnographic study and visual representations Challenging existing models of African political mobility by leveraging his initial lack of formal education into a position of power Adams moved from a radical lumpen and area boy to a big man who continues to struggle and reflect over the significance of his role as a cultural subject Blurring the lines between tradition and modernity Adams and his group have used Yoruba rituals to simultaneously claim authenticity and champion new movements for democracy and self determination How to Become a Big Man in Africa encourages us to understand the full complexity of Adams's political trajectory and how it reflects the structural and personal realities of becoming a Big Man in the contemporary postcolony The South Carolina Encyclopedia Walter B.
