Epistemic Justice and Creative Agency Sarah Colvin, Stephanie Galasso, 2022-09-12 Foundational theories of epistemic justice such as Miranda Fricker s have cited literary narratives to support their case But why have those narratives in particular provided the resource that was needed And is cultural production always supportive of epistemic justice This essay collection written by experts in literary philosophical and cultural studies working in conversation with each other across a range of global contexts expands the emerging field of epistemic injustice studies The essays analyze the complex relationship between narrative aesthetics and epistemic in justice referencing texts film and other forms of cultural production The authors present without seeking to synthesize perspectives on how justice and injustice are narratively and aesthetically produced This volume by no means wants to say the last word on epistemic justice and creative agency The intention is to open out a productive new field of study at a time when understanding the workings of injustice and possibilities for justice seems an ever more urgent project "Things New and Old", Or Stories from English History Hugh
