the familial and communal expectations of being seen rather than heard. Consequently these memories and lived stories name contradictions between being told what to do or say and knowing and deciding for herself. Additional themes include womanism and feminism, male patriarchy, violence, cultural norms, positionality, spirituality, representation, survival, and schooling. While the aforementioned can revive painful images and feelings, the essays offer hope, joy, redemption, and the reimagining of new ways of being in individual and communal spaces. An expectation is that middle school black girls, high school black girls, college university black girls, and community black women will view this work as seedlings for understanding, resistance, claiming voice, and healing.

Billion-Dollar Kiss Jeffrey Stepakoff, 2007-05-10 When Jeffrey Stepakoff was graduating with an MFA in playwriting, he imagined a life in the New York theater wearing a beret and smoking clove cigarettes. Writing for the boob tube didn't even cross his mind. But he ended up in L.A. in the late 80s when television writers were experiencing their equivalent of a gold rush. After the billion-dollar syndication of Seinfeld, when studios were paying astronomical amounts of money to writers to create the next Friends or ER, the sudden mania for scripted entertainment made the TV writer a hot commodity. He found himself meeting with big agents inside primetime story rooms, pitch meetings, and on the set of some of TV's most popular shows, and making more money than he'd ever thought possible. Weaving his personal story with television's Stepakoff takes us behind the scenes to show what it's like to have a story idea one week and see it come to life and be seen by millions of people just a week later. Stepakoff also takes us inside the industry to explain what we're watching and why by exploring the growing problems of media consolidation, the effects of interference from executives, the lack of diversity, and what reality television is doing to quality scripted television. When the market crashed and the dust settled, TV executives and the media conglomerates they worked for were sitting on a broken business model. Slowly, a new programming idea began to take hold: what if the writer and their salaries were removed from the equation? Reality TV was born, and the TV writer suddenly became obsolete at least temporarily.

Good Housekeeping, 1998 Television, History, and American Culture Mary Beth Haralovich, Lauren Rabinovitz, 1999 In less than a century, the flickering blue-gray light of the television screen has become a cultural icon. What do the images transmitted by that screen tell us about power, authority, gender, stereotypes, and ideology in the United States? Television, History, and American Culture addresses this question by illuminating how television both reflects and influences American culture and identity. The essays collected here focus on women in front of, behind, and on the TV screen as producers, viewers, and characters. Using feminist and historical criticism, the contributors investigate how television has shaped our understanding of gender, power, race, ethnicity, and sexuality from the 1950s to the present. The topics range from the role that women broadcasters played in radio and early television to the attempts of Desilu Productions to present acceptable images of Hispanic identity from the impact of TV talk shows on public discourse and the politics of offering viewers positive images of fat women to the negotiation of civil rights feminism and abortion rights on news programs and shows such as I Spy and Peyton Place Innovative and accessible this book will appeal to those interested in women's studies American studies and popular culture and the critical study of television Contributors Julie D Acci Mary Desjardins Jane Feuer Mary Beth Haralovich Michele Hilmes Moya Lockett Lauren Rabinovitz Jane M Shattuc Mark Williams Willing's Press Guide and Advertisers' Directory and Handbook ,2006 Editor & Publisher Newspaper Data Book ,2007 Television & Cable Factbook ,2006 BFI Film and Television Handbook 2004 Eddie Dyja,2003-11-01 No Marketing Blurb The Advertising Red Books ,2007-07 Cumulative Index to Periodical Literature ,1973-03 The Complete Directory to Prime Time Network and Cable TV Shows, 1946-present Tim Brooks,Earle Marsh,2003 The biggest and best television reference ever published this is the guide readers will turn to again and again for information on every nighttime network series ever telecast and all the top syndicated and cable series Bacon's TV/cable Directory ,2006 LexisNexis Corporate Affiliations ,2008 Paperbound Books in Print ,1991 SRDS Tv & Cable Source ,2003
