Shapiro, 2013-05-21 In Trying Biology Adam R Shapiro convincingly dispels many conventional assumptions about the 1925 Scopes monkey trial Most view it as an event driven primarily by a conflict between science and religion Countering this Shapiro shows the importance of timing the Scopes trial occurred at a crucial moment in the history of biology textbook publishing education reform in Tennessee and progressive school reform across the country He places the trial in this broad context alongside American Protestant antievolution sentiment and in doing so sheds new light on the trial and the historical relationship of science and religion in America For the first time we see how religious objections to evolution became a prevailing concern to the American textbook industry even before the Scopes trial began Shapiro explores both the development of biology textbooks leading up to the trial and the ways in which the textbook industry created new books and presented them as responses to the trial Today the controversy continues over textbook warning labels making Shapiro's study particularly as it plays out in one of America's most famous trials an original contribution to a timely discussion

Resisting Reform Kjersti VanSlyke-Briggs, Elizabeth Bloom, Danielle Boudet, 2015-04-01 This book is a poignant celebration of grassroots empowerment as our contributors, people who just a short time ago thought of themselves as ordinary citizens, document their call to action when their children and their profession are on the line. Practicing teachers and parents who see the direct impact of education reform on young people and are looking for straightforward and accessible information to help them understand what is happening and acquire the tools for resistance will find direction in this text. Providing inspiration as well as practical guidance on how to become active in reclaiming education, this book covers topics including the corporate takeover of education, high stakes testing, Common Core Standards teacher preparation, grassroots activist responses, and much more.

A Case for Change in Teacher Preparation Julie Gorlewski, Amanda Winkelsas, Suzanne N.

Rosenblith, Corrie Stone-Johnson, Elisabeth Etopio, David Gorlewski, Tiffany Karalis Noel, Bobbie Finocchio, Amanda Seccia, Ling Zhai, Erin Kearney, Xiufeng Liu, Nooshin Shafaei, Tanika Shedrick, 2021-08-19 Why are preservice teachers often told by veteran teachers to forget what you learned in teacher preparation programs Why is there a gap between pedagogical practices employed at schools and those taught at colleges and universities And why after evidence from countless studies are there still so few teachers of color working in our rapidly diversifying schools These questions are addressed in this book which describes a reconceptualized teacher preparation program based on a teacher residency model This model is grounded in three core beliefs first that teacher quality is a shared responsibility between universities and school districts second that all students have a right to high quality teachers who are as racially ethnically and linguistically diverse as the students they teach and third that for education to be transformative future educators must have the right balance of theoretical knowledge and practical experiences grounded in specific contexts Through a combination of rich description and qualitative and quantitative program data the authors make the case that university programs focused on the communities they serve can ensure more effective learner ready teachers who remain in the profession longer By providing a detailed blueprint for program development the contents of this book will be of value and interest to educational leaders policy makers and researchers
