■ RESEARCH The impact of the 2008 financial crisis on the U.S. economy is being studied by a number of researchers. One study by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York found that the crisis led to a significant increase in the unemployment rate, which reached a historic high of 10.3% in October 2009. The study also found that the crisis led to a significant decrease in consumer spending, which is a key driver of the U.S. economy. This decrease in spending led to a decrease in production, which in turn led to a decrease in demand for labor, resulting in the increase in unemployment.
