Popular Magazines and Fiction in Shanghai, 1914-1925 Peijie Mao,2021-12-02 This book explores the rise of Shanghai based popular magazines produced by the Mandarin Ducks and Butterflies School in early twentieth century China It examines the national gender family and social imaginaries constructed and negotiated through a complex network of relationships between popular writers magazine editors and their intended readers which were represented in various forms of popular narratives including patriotic stories war military stories family narratives domestic fiction utopian writings and industrial business stories The author argues that the national imagination social ideals and the notions of ideal womanhood and the new family were intrinsically linked and integral to the search for cultural identity of the emerging Chinese middle society and an expression of their collective sensibilities experiences and aspirations This book suggests that the cultural imaginaries configured in these magazine stories articulated a shared quest for modernity one that emphasized sentiment quotidian experience the pursuit of the modern family and individual success strengthening of the nation and the reinvention of cultural tradition Popular magazines and fiction therefore became uniquely instrumental in catalyzing the process of Chinese modernity which emerged and developed along the symbiotic interrelations between the private and the public the traditional and the modern and the real and the imaginary

Informing with the Case Method T. Grandon Gill,2011 There are a number of marvelous books that address the topic of the case method If you are interested in facilitating cases you can look to the classic book Teaching and the Case Method by Louis Barnes C Roland Christensen and Abby Hansen 1994 The collection of essays on the subject Education for Judgment The Artistry of Discussion Leadership by C Roland

Christensen David Garvin and Ann Sweet 1991 is a wonderful and inspiring read as well If your interest is case based research it would be nearly impossible to find a more authoritative source than Robert Yin s 2009 4th Edition Case Study Research Design and Methods which at last count has been cited nearly 29 000 times according to Google Scholar There is even a new entry to the field William Ellet s 2007 The Case Study Handbook How to Read Discuss and Write Persuasively about Cases that is specifically aimed at the student At first glance then the topic of case studies in education and research seems to be pretty well covered Do we really need another book on the subject I write this book believing the answer is yes While I have great affection for the classics there are a number of issues facing most business faculty not to mention faculty members from disciplines outside of business that these books simply do not address In writing this book my intention is to offer some thoughts on some of these Paradoxically these omissions arise from the very fact that the authors of the classics are undisputed masters of their craft Why this is a problem should become clear as I identify the three areas of focus for this book The first issue that I feel must be considered is using the case method with a novice audience Consider the following When I was enrolled in the MBA program at Harvard Business School HBS in the early 1980s the curriculum consisted of nearly 900 case discussion 15 per week and perhaps as many as 20 class periods given over to lecture style presentations When I teach a case method graduate course at my own institution on the other hand I am constrained to 11 case discussions a 12 week semester As it happens I am also the only course in the entire program that employs pedagogy reasonably faithful to the case method as it is normally defined The math is very simple By the last day of my semester my students have as much experience discussing cases as I did on Thursday afternoon of the first week of my two year MBA program at HBS With the exception of faculty teaching at those rare institutions that have chosen to widely adopt the case method the situation I face is commonplace The second concern that existing books raise for me is their tendency to focus on isolated topics Specifically case facilitation case writing and case research are treated as separable activities I would argue that these three aspects of the case method which I define quite broadly are inseparable For institutions that wish to achieve the full set of benefits provided by the case method all three activities must be pursued in parallel Perhaps this is why so few institutions have achieved success through the case method In this book I will argue that achieving such integration is precisely why those rare institutions have been so successful Once you start believing that the case method can be a key to institutional success how you get there becomes a real challenge At leading institutions featuring the case method such as HBS the philosophy is largely learned through a period of apprenticeship For example I did not encounter any of the references mentioned in the first paragraph excepting Yin at any time during my 5 year doctorate at HBS Instead I went out and wrote cases facilitated discussions and did research under the guidance of faculty members who were masters of the craft How can someone without the benefit of such an experience acquire such mastery While I cannot offer any promises in this regard I will at least provide some examples and easy to follow checklists that may be of service to individuals getting started

Cinema, Audiences and Modernity Daniel Biltereyst, Richard Maltby, Philippe Meers, 2013-03-01 This book sheds new light on the cinema and modernity debate by confronting established theories on the role of the modern cinematic experience with new empirical work on the history of the social experience of cinema going film audiences and film exhibition The book provides a wide range of research methodologies and perspectives on these matters including the use of oral history methods questionnaires diaries audience letters as well as industrial sociological and other accounts on historical film audiences The collection s case studies thus provide a how to compendium of current methodologies for researchers and students working on film and media audiences film and media experiences and historical reception The volume is part of a new cinema history effort within film and screen studies to look at film history not only as a history of production textual relations or movies as artefacts but rather to concentrate more on the receiving end the social experience of cinema and the engagement of film cinema history from below The contributions to the volume reflect upon the very different ways in which cinema has been accepted rejected or disciplined as an agent of modernity in neighbouring parts of Europe and how cinema going has been promoted and regulated as a popular social practice at different times in twentieth century European history Living Theory Charles E.
