What Was the Underlying Cause of World War I?

World War I was allegedly started by the assassination of Archduke Franz Ferdinand, heir to the Austro-Hungarian throne. If people take a closer look into history, they will see there are many deep-rooted reasons World War I was started below the surface of the regular eye, and they include alliances, militarism, and most importantly, imperialism.

Alliances are an underlying cause, but were not necessarily the most important. The impact that alliances had on World War I is a very important factor to figuring out why World War I became a world war. The alliance systems are what brought the numbers into the millions instead of the thousands. It caused the death toll to rise to about 10 million; that many people did not have to die and they died because they were brought into the war by the alliances. The whole war started with Austria and Serbia, and that turned into a world war. Russians identify themselves as Slaviks, as does Serbia; Germany allied with Austria and by Germany starting war against everyone else, it turned into a world war. Germany came up with the Schlieffen Plan to go through Belgium to get to France, but ended up bringing Great Britain and the U.S. into the war. Great Britain was allied with Belgium and the U.S. had culture ties to Great Britain; therefore, during this time if one country and another country were connected in any way by culture or ethnicity, you were brought into the war. Germany may be blamed for a lot of the war, but maybe the blame should go to the countries that got involved when they shouldn't have. Alliances caused this war to grow to the size it did, and if people let the original countries fight their own fight, then none of this would have happened.

The underlying cause that influenced the death toll to rise more than alliances is militarism. The making of all these weapons and the total war effort given by the people at home created a bigger, more involved war. The women helping the war effort by going to work in factories may have not been the best idea. Yes they were helping out the soldiers by making weapons for them, but militarism wouldn't have been such a problem if the women stayed at
