

FOCUSED SOAP NOTE FOR ANXIETY, PTSD, AND OCD

In assessing patients with anxiety, obsessive-compulsive, and trauma and stressor-related disorders, you will continue the practice of looking to understand chief symptomology in order to develop a diagnosis. With a differential diagnosis in mind, you can then move to a treatment and follow-up plan that may involve both psychopharmacologic and psychotherapeutic approaches.

In this Assignment, you use a case study to develop a focused SOAP note based on evidence-based approaches. TO PREPARE

- Review the Focused SOAP Note template, which you will use to complete this Assignment. There is also a Focused SOAP Note Exemplar provided as a guide for Assignment expectations. (Attached documents)
- Review the video,

Case Study: Dev Cordoba. (See below the complete transcript.) You will use this case as the basis of this Assignment.

- Consider what history would be necessary to collect from this patient.
- Consider what interview questions you would need to ask this patient.

THE ASSIGNMENT – INSTRUCTIONS
Develop a Focused SOAP Note, including your differential diagnosis and critical-thinking process to formulate a primary diagnosis. Incorporate the following into your responses in the template:

- Subjective: What details did the patient provide regarding their chief complaint and symptomology to derive your differential diagnosis? What is the duration and severity of their symptoms? How are their symptoms impacting their functioning in life?
- Objective: What observations did you make during the Ending Medicine's Chronic Dysfunction Lawrence L. Weed, Lincoln Weed, 2022-06-01 This book describes an overlooked solution to a long standing problem in health care The problem is an informational supply chain that is unnecessarily dependent on the minds of doctors for assembling patient data and medical knowledge in clinical decision making That supply chain function is more than the human mind can deliver Yet dependence on the mind is built into the traditional role of doctors who are educated and licensed to rely heavily on personal knowledge and judgment The culture of medicine has long been in denial of this problem even now that health information technology is increasingly used and even as artificial intelligence AI tools are emerging AI will play an important role but it is not a solution The solution instead begins with traditional software techniques designed to integrate novel functionality for clinical decision support and electronic health record EHR tools That functionality implements high standards of care for managing health information This book describes that functionality in some detail This description is intended in part to be a starting point for developers in the open source software community who have an opportunity to begin developing an integrated cloud based version of the tools described working with interested clinicians patients and others The tools grew out of work beginning more than six decades ago when this book's lead author deceased originated problem lists and structured notes in medical records The electronic tools he later developed led him to reconceive education and licensure for doctors and other health professionals which are also part of the solution this book describes
