

Student Teaching Reflection

When I first thought about student teaching, I went through many emotions. It started with excitement because that meant I was that much closer to graduating. I had so many questions running through my mind. What will my teachers be like? Will the faculty be supportive? With all these questions, I started to feel intimidated by what was soon to come. I was worried that my teachers and I would not get along. I was terrified that my students would not understand me. What was I going to do if I was not able to be the kind of teacher I had hoped I would be? When the time came for me to begin my student teaching, all I could do was hope and pray that things went smoothly. I soon found out that any worries I had were no longer an issue. I was placed at a school that was filled with caring and supportive people. If I had a question, they had an answer. If they did not know, they found someone who did. Even the teachers that I had no contact with were there to make me feel comfortable and respected. My cooperating teachers sat down with me and helped me reflect on how I was doing. I was expecting to get along with my students and my cooperating teachers, but my experience went above and beyond any expectations I had in the beginning. I learned more than ever imagined I would! I have come to realize I could not have had a better student teaching experience than the one I had at Farley Elementary School.

My first placement was in a kindergarten Autism unit. I had two students who stayed with me all day. These two were my more severe cases. The six other students I worked with were in regular education classrooms. These students were high functioning and came in throughout the day. We did activities revolving around social skills and communication. My main objective for these students was to enable them to effectively communicate with others around them.

This class was unlike any other I had observed. These students were very intelligent, but lacked social skills that other children their age possess. One activity I did with my students on a daily basis was circle time. This circle time was different than what is done in a regular classroom. In addition to the usual calendar and singing, I would include a social story. These stories were about daily living skills, such as brushing your teeth and taking a bath. They also discussed communication skills, such as how close to stand to someone when having a conversation and how to share toys.

During my first placement, I taught my students a unit on Personal Safety. For the first activity in this unit, the students worked on learning their personal information, such as their full name, phone number, address, and parents' names. Part of this unit required the students to take turns asking each other about their information. This activity was wonderful! The students made progress in their conversation skills as the weeks went on. They learned that when you talk to someone, it is important to look them in the eye.

Student Teaching Reflection Paper:

Educating Prospective Secondary Mathematics Teachers Marilyn E. Strutchens, Rongjin Huang, Despina Potari, Leticia Losano, 2018-06-01 This book highlights innovative approaches to preparing secondary mathematics teachers. Based on empirical findings gathered in several countries on five continents it provides a wealth of best practices for preparing secondary mathematics teachers and discusses issues related to their professional and personal growth such as identity, content knowledge, and pedagogical content knowledge which also includes knowledge of integrating technology into teaching and learning mathematics. Divided into four parts, the book focuses on field experiences, technologies, tools, and resources, teacher knowledge, and teacher professional identities. Some of the main threads running through the book are the importance of university and school partners working together to ensure preservice secondary mathematics teacher success in developing pedagogical strategies that lead toward students' mathematical engagement and achievement, the critical need for preservice secondary mathematics teachers to develop strong content knowledge and pedagogical content knowledge, and the importance of providing opportunities during pre-service education for developing prospective teachers' professional identities.

Mathematics Teaching Johnny W. Lott, Jennifer Luebeck, 2015-06-01 Originally published in 2010, the seventh monograph of AMTE highlights examples of important scholarship of and for the mathematics teacher education community. This monograph, like others produced by AMTE, serves as a forum for mathematics teacher educators to exchange ideas, experiences, resources, and detailed accounts of work to improve teacher preparation. Chapters in this monograph take up a variety of issues such as using online social networking in the preparation of teachers, examining the impact of textbook-specific professional development, and offering a mathematics-specific reading in the content area course.

Tools, Techniques and Strategies for Reflective Second & Foreign Language Teacher Education Paul Voerke, Mergenfel A. Vaz Ferreira, Nancy Drescher, 2024-05-10 Essential questions about the skills teachers need for effective classroom practice have raised by researchers such as Shulman, Schön, Altrichter, Posch, and Hattie, and discussions still continue. In this context, the anthology combines theoretical studies and practical insights about reflection from foreign and second language teacher education and professional development. It includes examples of reflective tools, techniques, and strategies that can help teachers to re-think their practices and ensure the quality of their everyday work.
