Resources in Education, 1989 Educating the Net Generation Bob Pletka, 2007-07-01 Educating the Net Generation How to Engage Students in the 21st Century addresses the national problem of escalating high school dropout rates and student disengagement and offers solutions as to how to best involve students of the millennial generation The book examines the unique characteristics of the Net Generation and explains how the educational expectations and needs of the Net Generation differ from their Gen X parents and Baby Boomer grandparents It also looks at why many students resist engaging in formalized education in schools and ultimately drop out Chapters featuring student interviews and photographs synthesize the perspectives of current high school students regarding their experiences beliefs and thoughts on learning while a parallel set of parent interviews reveals what parents feel is important in their child's education and how they would like to see schools engage their children in learning Recommendations for changes in school policy and the financial investment critical to turning the situation around are also included along with an inventory checklist for parents teachers and school administrators to determine if their individual school environment has what it takes to keep students motivated and engaged The Role of Public Policy in K-12 Science Education George E. DeBoer, 2011-01-01 The goal of this volume of Research in Science Education is to examine the relationship between science education policy and practice and the special role that science education researchers play in influencing policy It has been suggested that the science education research community is isolated from the political process pays little attention to policy matters and has little influence on policy But to influence policy it is important to understand how policy is made and how it is implemented This volume sheds light on the intersection between policy and practice through both theoretical discussions and practical examples This book was written primarily about science education policy development in the context of the highly decentralized educational system of the United States But because policy development is fundamentally a social activity involving knowledge values and personal and community interests there are similarities in how education policy gets enacted and implemented around the world This volume is meant to be useful to science education researchers and to practitioners such as teachers and administrators because it provides information about which aspects of the science education enterprise are affected by state local and national policies It also provides helpful information for researchers and practitioners who wonder how they might influence policy In particular it points out how the values of people who are affected by policy initiatives are critical to the implementation of those policies
